Sardine Fishing.

As the name indicates, this little fish, so popular for lunches, was at first taken in the waters bordering upon the island of Sardinia. The demand exceeding the supply, other fish besides the true sardine (Culpea Sardina) are captured and treated in the same way, and are sold in the markets of Europe and America.

The Culpea Sardina is found in the Mediterranean and in the waters of the Atlantic near the coasts of Spain and Portugal, but not so far north as the French coast. The chief fishery for "sardines" is upon the coast of Bretagne, in the west of France. The fish are not the true sardines, but pilchards or sprats; none but practiced judges can tell the difference when the boxes are opened.

The Culpea, a term for the herring family, includes pilchards as well as the true sardines. The pilchard fishermen aim to secure the young fish, as those fully grown are too large for the boxes. The true sardines have attained their full growth. In habits as well as in general appearances the two tribes are similar.

The fish when taken are first washed, then salted a little, then thoroughly cleansed and washed again, after which they are spread out on frames of light willow or wire work, and exposed to the sun and wind. They are then boiled awhile in olive oil, and put in boxes, with oil to fill up.

The usual mode of capturing these little fish is by the large net called a seine, a name which comes down to us from the ancient Greeks (Greek, sagana; Latin, sagena.) The corks of the superior line serve as buoys, while the leads or weights of the sinker line secure to the net a perpendicular position in the face of the shoal. Often the men of two boats manage one large seine, each drawing one end, and sweeping the water with it for some considerable distance.

Women as well as men engage in the sprat fishery, on the coasts of Bretagne. This is for the most part a winter work, while that for sardines is carried on chiefly in May, June, and July.

When a shoal appears, a bait, consisting of the sprawn of large fish, much of which is brought from Norway, is thrown over to keep the myriads together. The shoals of herring or of sprats are very capricious in their movements; why they should be now here, and in half an hour far away, no mortal can divine. We are equally at a loss to tell why in some seasons they approach certain coasts and headlands, and absent themselves at other times. Many foolish notions have prevailed as to the cause of the disappearance of shoals from waters which they were wont to frequent. The firing of cannon on ship or shore is tho't by some to account for their absence. A newly-installed clergyman whose parish bordered upon the ocean, having said he meant to tithe the product of the sea; this injudicious remark was believed to have such an effect upon the finny tribe that for many years they kept away from those coasts.—Our Monthly for July.

More About Gapes.

A number of agricultural and other periodicals have been describing a way of taking toe gape-worms out of chicks with a horse-hair. I tried that years ago, but could not get them out clean. I tried different remedies, but none gave me entire satisfaction. Now, for the last two years, I have used a timothy head.—I get the chick between my knees, and hold it there. I then, with my left hand, get hold of its lower mandible, and stretch the neck up straight, and, by so doing, I can see the worms working in the wind-pipe; I then insert the grass stem with my right hand, between my thumb and forefinger, rolling it round steadily until it is down below the worms; pulling it out then, I have all the worms sticking fast, or have them loose, so the chick will sneeze them out, and give immediate relief. I do not lose one out of a hundred with the gapes. You will find, enclosed, a grass-head that I have used on over fifty chickens this summer, and have not lost one.—Exchange.

Good Cherry.

What the Bartlett is among pears, or the Concord among grapes, the Early Richmond is in the list of cherries. The fact of its superior excellence for cooking purposes has made it one of our most popular fruits wherever it has been tested. Large orchards in the Western states prove its popularity in that part of the country, and we have yet to learn a single exception to the general estimate in which it is held. The tree is perhaps more hardy than any other variety, excepting only the Large English Morello, and its regular crops of fruit entitle it to precedence for profit. It begins to bear at a very early age, and when other kinds of Morello and Duke cherries are terribly injured by the black knot, the Early Richmond is almost exempt. It is not, at least, so liable to the disease as others of this class.

Lie Down and Rest

Dr. Hall says the best medicine in the world, more efficient in the cure of disease than all the potencies of the materia medica, are rest, warmth, cleanliness, and pure air. Some persons make it a virtue to brave disease, to "keep up" as long as they can move a foot or crook a finger, and it sometimes succeeds; but in others the powers of life are thereby so completely exhausted that the system has lost all ability to recuperate, and slow and typhoid fever sets in and carries the patient to a premature grave. Whenever walking or work is an effort, a warm bed and a cool room are the first indispensable steps to a sure and speedy recovery. Instinct leads all beasts and birds to quietude and rest the very moment disease or wounds assail their system.

An Artist in Butter.

A Memphis paper has the following concerning an Arkansas woman who "sculps" in butter: "Great numbers of people visited the office of Mr. Littleton, on Madison street, yesterday, to see the wonderful work of the sculptor's art wrought in frozen butter. There was never anything like it. An Arkansas housewife absolutely takes a spoon and a knife, and conforms the shape of butter to that of one's face and features, even preserving the expression, as well as perfect accuracy of outline.—Powers never surpassed this artist in butter, though he used Parian and Pentillican marble, in defining with perfect accuracy the outlines of human forms and faces."

Cause of Intermittent Fevers.

In the discussion of the power of certain substances to prevent putrefaction, and the development of protoplasmic life, Mr. F. C. Calvert states that quinine sulphate will completely stop the growth of fungi, and that since this substance is so efficacious in cases of intermittent fevers, it is probable that the latter may be the result of the introduction of fungoid growths into the system, and this seems more probable since these fevers are developed more extensively in swampy countries, where the decomposition of vegetable matter is so abundant.

A machinist died lately at the age of fifty-four, in Rhode Island, who had been unable to do any work for twelve years, and who had never received over $1.50 per day for wages, and yet he left a snug little fortune of $15,000, all from his own earnings. He was not penurious, was married, had one child, and educated her, lived comfortably, and dressed neatly. He merely saved small sums, beginning with $200 when he became of age, and added the interests of his deposits to the principal.

The Elmira Advertiser is responsible for this fishiest of fish stories:

Thursday morning a lady by the name of Morse, accompanied by her little son Henry, aged about eight, who are rusticating on Keuka Lake, went out in a skiff, when the lad leaned over the side, evidently to see how near he could come to touching the water. At that instant a huge, but beautiful trout, weighing eight pounds, seized him firmly by the nose, and holding on to the bait, the trout was landed into the skiff. The boy's nose was very badly lacerated by the teeth of the fish. Both boy and fish were exhibited in Penn Yan, and drew together a large assembly of citizens. Such is, we believe, the largest fish story of the season, vouched for, to, by creditable witnesses.

"I thank you for the opportunity of expressing my opinion of the great value of the 'NEW AMERICAN' and 'ANNUAL CYCLOPÆDIA.' I own the work and have it with me here, and am in the habit of consulting it every day to my very great advantage. It is most admirable. J. L. MOTLEY,

"Boston, Oct. 25, 1869.
I own Appletons' Cyclopædia, and use it constantly. It should be in every library, public and private—I would say in every house, within reach of every family. The young should use it. CHARLES SUMNER."
"I use the 'New American Cyclopædia' every day, generally many times a day. I think it the best work of the kind in existence. It is singularly well suited to families. The children who grow up in a house where there is a copy of it within reach, can hardly escape becoming well-informed persons. I value it very highly, and am glad of this opportunity of testifying my gratitude. JAMES PARTON."

"It Works Like a Charm."
"Guess you're joking, mister, aint you?" said a poor, crippled man, whose joints were out of shape with Rheumatism, to one of our agents, who was telling what Renne's Pain-Killing Magic Oil would do. He gave him a bottle to try, and in about two weeks he writes. "Wm. Renne & Sons. I thank you for the Magic Oil your agent gave me. Its use on my poor crippled hands gave immediate relief, and some friends helped me to get some more of your Oil, which I have used freely, and now I can use my hands and limbs quite nimbly."

Sardine Fishing.

As the name indicates, this little fish, so popular for lunches, was at first taken in the waters bordering upon the island of Sardinia. The demand exceeding the supply, other fish besides the true sardine (Culpea Sardina) are captured and treated in the same way, and are sold in the markets of Europe and America.

The Culpea Sardina is found in the Mediterranean and in the waters of the Atlantic near the coasts of Spain and Portugal, but not so far north as the French coast. The chief fishery for "sardines" is upon the coast of Bretagne, in the west of France. The fish are not the true sardines, but pilchards or sprats; none but practiced judges can tell the difference when the boxes are opened.

The Culpea, a term for the herring family, includes pilchards as well as the true sardines. The pilchard fishermen aim to secure the young fish, as those fully grown are too large for the boxes. The true sardines have attained their full growth. In habits as well as in general appearances the two tribes are similar.

The fish when taken are first washed, then salted a little, then thoroughly cleansed and washed again, after which they are spread out on frames of light willow or wire work, and exposed to the sun and wind. They are then boiled awhile in olive oil, and put in boxes, with oil to fill up.

The usual mode of capturing these little fish is by the large net called a seine, a name which comes down to us from the ancient Greeks (Greek, sayana; Latin, sagena.) The corks of the superior line serve as buoys, while the leads or weights of the sinker line secure to the net a perpendicular position in the face of the shoal. Often the men of two boats manage one large seine, each drawing one end, and sweeping the water with it for some considerable distance.

Women as well as men engage in the sprat fishery, on the coasts of Bretagne. This is for the most part a winter work, while that for sardines is carried on chiefly in May, June, and July.

When a shoal appears, a bait, consisting of the sprawn of large fish, much of which is brought from Norway, is thrown over to keep the myriads together. The shoals of herring or of sprats are very capricious in their movements; why they should be now here, and in half an hour far away, no mortal can divine. We are equally at a loss to tell why in some seasons they approach certain coasts and headlands, and absent themselves at other times. Many foolish notions have prevailed as to the cause of the disappearance of shoals from waters which they were wont to frequent. The firing of cannon on ship or shore is tho't by some to account for their absence. A newly-installed clergyman whose parish bordered upon the ocean, having said he meant to tithe the product of the sea, this injudicious remark was believed to have such an effect upon the finny tribe that for many years they kept away from those coasts.—Our Monthly for July.

More About Gapes.

A number of agricultural and other periodicals have been describing a way of taking toe gape-worms out of chicks with a horse-hair. I tried that years ago, but could not get them out clean. I tried different remedies, but none gave me entire satisfaction. Now, for the last two years, I have used a timothy head.—I get the chick between my knees, and hold it there. I then, with my left hand, get hold of its lower mandible, and stretch the neck up straight, and, by so doing, I can see the worms working in the wind-pipe; I then insert the grass stem with my right hand, between my thumb and forefinger, rolling it round steadily until it is down below the worms; pulling it out then, I have all the worms sticking fast, or have them loose, so the chick will sneeze them out, and give immediate relief. I do not lose one out of a hundred with the gapes. You will find, enclosed, a grass-head that I have used on over fifty chickens this summer, and have not lost one.—Exchange.

Good Cherry.

What the Bartlett is among pears, or the Concord among grapes, the Early Richmond is in the list of cherries. The fact of its superior excellence for cooking purposes has made it one of our most popular fruits wherever it has been tested. Large orchards in the Western states prove its popularity in that part of the country, and we have yet to learn a single exception to the general estimate in which it is held. The tree is perhaps more hardy than any other variety, excepting only the Large English Morello, and its regular crops of fruit entitle it to precedence for profit. It begins to bear at a very early age, and when other kinds of Morello and Duke cherries are terribly injured by the black knot, the Early Richmond is almost exempt. It is not, at least, so liable to the disease as others of this class.

Lie Down and Rest

Dr. Hall says the best medicine in the world, more efficient in the cure of disease than all the potencies of the materia medica, are rest, warmth, cleanliness, and pure air. Some persons make it a virtue to brave disease, to "keep up" as long as they can move a foot or crook a finger, and it sometimes succeeds; but in others the powers of life are thereby so completely exhausted that the system has lost all ability to recuperate, and slow and typhoid fever sets in and carries the patient to a premature grave. Whenever walking or work is an effort, a warm bed and a cool room are the first indispensable steps to a sure and speedy recovery. Instinct leads all beasts and birds to quietude and rest the very moment disease or wounds assail their system.

An Artist in Butter.

A Memphis paper has the following concerning an Arkansas woman who "sculps" in butter: "Great numbers of people visited the office of Mr. Littleton, on Madison street, yesterday, to see the wonderful work of the sculptor's art wrought in frozen butter. There was never anything like it. An Arkansas housewife absolutely takes a spoon and a knife, and conforms the shape of butter to that of one's face and features, even preserving the expression, as well as perfect accuracy of outline.—Powers never surpassed this artist in butter, though he used Parian and Pentilican marble, in defining with perfect accuracy the outlines of human forms and faces."

Cause of Intermittent Fevers.

In the discussion of the power of certain substances to prevent putrefaction, and the development of protoplasmic life, Mr. F. C. Calvert states that quinine sulphate will completely stop the growth of fungi, and that since this substance is so efficacious in cases of intermittent fevers, it is probable that the latter may be the result of the introduction of fungoid growths into the system, and this seems more probable since these fevers are developed more extensively in swampy countries, where the decomposition of vegetable matter is so abundant.

A machinist died lately at the age of fifty-four, in Rhode Island, who had been unable to do any work for twelve years, and who had never received over $1.50 per day—for wages, and yet he left a snug little fortune of $15,000, all from his own earnings. He was not penurious, was married, had one child, and educated her, lived comfortably, and dressed neatly. He merely saved small sums, beginning with $200 when he became of age, and added the interests of his deposits to the principal.

The Elmira Advertiser is responsible for this fishiest of fish stories:

Thursday morning a lady by the name of Morse, accompanied by her little son Henry, aged about eight, who are rusticating on Keuka Lake, went out in a skiff, when the lad leaned over the side, evidently to see how near he could come to touching the water. At that instant a huge, but beautiful trout, weighing eight pounds, seized him firmly by the nose, and holding on to the bait, the trout was landed into the skiff. The boy's nose was very badly lacerated by the teeth of the fish. Both boy and fish were exhibited in Penn Yan, and drew together a large assembly of citizens. Such is, we believe, the largest fish story of the season, vouched for, to, by creditable witnesses.

"I thank you for the opportunity of expressing my opinion of the great value of the 'NEW AMERICAN' and 'ANNUAL CYCLOPÆDIA.' I own the work and have it with me here, and am in the habit of consulting it every day to my very great advantage. It is most admirable. J. L. MOTLEY,

"Philadelphia, Nov. 1, 1869.

I consider the New American Cyclopaedia, published by D. Appleton & Co., vastly superior for the American reader to any other Cyclopaedia now before the public. REV. BISHOP SIMPSON."

"Boston, Oct. 25, 1869.

I own Appletons' Cyclopaedia, and use it constantly. It should be in every library, public and private—I would say in every house, within reach of every family. The young should use it.

CHARLES SUMNER."

"I use the 'New American Cyclopaedia' every day, generally many times a day. I think it the best work of the kind in existence. It is singularly well suited to families. The children who grow up in a house where there is a copy of it within reach, can hardly escape becoming well-informed persons. I value it very highly, and am glad of this opportunity of testifying my gratitude.

JAMES PARTON."

"Tribune Office, N. Y. City, Oct. 30, 1869.

"It Works Like a Charm."

"Guess you're joking, mister, aint you?" said a poor, crippled man, whose joints were out of shape with Rheumatism, to one of our agents, who was telling what Renne's Pain-Killing Magic Oil would do. He gave him a bottle to try, and in about two weeks he writes. "Wm. Renne & Sons. I thank you for the Magic Oil your agent gave me. Its use on my poor crippled hands gave immediate relief, and some friends helped me to get some more of your Oil, which I have used freely, and now I can use my hands and limbs quite nimbly."

The Daily Freeman.

Kingston, Monday Morning, Sept. 8.

The Troy people are making quite a time over the return of Minister Francis from Greece. Their welcome is hearty and worthily bestowed, for Mr. Francis is a good man. But let Troy extend no more welcomes to him, but keep him home. He can just as well be Minister to Greece in the editorial rooms of the Times, for we need a minister there about as much as a coach a fifth wheel.

Now that the probabilities are pretty positive that Washburn will get the nomination didn't some of the Republican papers come out for Ben. just a little too quick? The Times squinted, but a squint may be called the perfection of Butlerism. And now that the administration favored Butler's nomination is it beaten or not in Massachusetts?

It was popularly reported that Minister Mori was in very bad odor at home, and had been invited to commit hari kari, that neat and exceedingly convenient method of removing any distasteful statesmen the country is afflicted with. But it seems this is all a mistake, and instead of Mori being moribund through a slit stomach, he has been very favorably received, and will come back to this country as Minister once again, and is now making the rounds of his friends and eating and drinking of their best, for which latter he needs a more capacious and tighter stomach than he has ever had. We congratulate Mori, and hope he'll pare none of his flesh except his corns.

The Utica Herald has been advocating for some time with considerable reason the adoption of daylight caucuses. The caucus, where the party is in power, is responsible for most of the bad government, as its action is practically decisive in filling the offices. If the party is in the ascendancy the real fight is in the caucus, after which the whippers-in keep the masses in line and faithful to the "regular ticket." And the candidates are chosen by a system around which the law throws not a single safeguard, and the natural consequence is that the frauds of election day are multiplied a dozen-fold in the primaries. The adoption of the Herald's suggestion to have these primaries in the day-time instead of evening will prevent some of the frauds and help towards securing a square expression of the popular will.

Probably no road in the state has ever had so many well-wishers as the Midland, and certainly none has ever been the recipient of so many cash money favors from towns and municipalities. Everybody wished it well, and does yet, notwithstanding time is as yet an unknown quantity in its running, and accidents seem to be the normal occurrences on its line. But to the proposition to bond a lot more towns in the Ontario tier of counties to help build its branch to Buffalo, we opine there will be very substantial dissent from people generally. Bonding of towns in aid of railroads has become a stench in the nostrils of New Yorkers; the whole system has reeked with corruption and fraud, and grievous burdens have been fastened upon the people's shoulders. The begging of the people for favors and becoming their masters but a few months afterwards has become a serious matters with taxpayers.

That is a rather novel thing in criminal business, the Irving confession. Unsuspected and in no danger and far away from the scene of the murder, in California, he confesses to having committed the murder, and now the police won't believe him. He is popularly credited with the desire to procure a free ticket across the continent, and for that he has said he committed murder. Very plainly mankind has to invent some touchstone for evidence, if men will swear themselves guilty of crimes of which they are innocent, and we are quite thoroughly convinced men will swear others guilty when they never even thought of the crimes of which they are accused. To get out of the muddle and obtain something to justify them in having no faith in their own skepticism, they have telegraphed to Irving for the whereabouts of his wife. Seldom has so delicate an appeal been made, and doubtless Irving will hasten to produce the woman who will prove he isn't a liar. Irving would clearly rather commit a murder than lie about it.

Those confounded paniers! What a sight of trouble they have caused the lynx-eyed custom officers and how often they have conveyed ashore valuables whose presence was all unsuspected by the men watching to detect smuggling! And here we have another case. A poor despairing wife visits her husband in the Memphis jail, where he is confined for high crimes and misdemeanors—She passes meekly and humbly along, the guard, perhaps in his sympathy for her great distress, forgetting the vigilance which is ever the price of keeping a horse thief safely "jugged" as well as liberty, and fails to notice that there is a peculiar appearance about her drooping panier betokening the presence of some unusual object. Pretty soon she comes out, her husband with her, and when the gate is reached up he pops a revolver, demanding "Liberty or death"—only it's the death of the sentinel he demands; so the latter, to whom the last alternative is unpleasant, dodges back and the horse thief is off like the wind on a horse all ready for him. Then the woman laughs in her sleeve to think how she fooled the stupid, confiding men. Oh, these woman! and these ridiculous panniers!

Best and Second Best.

To anybody who makes a study of the relations between things an interesting phase of this subject will be the close approach of the best and second best. Probably the ablest man in the world, all things considered, is but the shadow of a shade abler than the next in line. In the quality of imagination one artist is a degree better than another, while that other exceeds him in painting accessories or in grouping. Mr Bonner's trotting horse, Joe Elliott, made his mile in 2:15½ last June on the Mystic Park course, being one and one quarter seconds faster than Goldsmith Maid on the same track in the same month of the same year. And these two noble horses have beaten all others in trotting, if we may trust the record of the American Trotting Turf Association. Certainly steamboats on the Hudson river have each their special admirers, who believe their favorite to be the fatest boat. Yet there is always an unsolved question about it. So far as reliable statements of their speed go, there is no material difference between them and if there is it is so slight as to be worthless except perhaps as the basis of a wager. Between the man who came to be king and his vassal who at one time might have been, the odds lay in the accident of casual wit or incidental shrewdness.

Let the second bests take heart of grace.—They would all have been best but for the freaks of fickle fortune, and the urgent needs of mathematics for No. 2. The elephant's instinct and the fool's reason will be reversed in favor of the elephant when we have better standards of judgment; then also lots of other "Lasts" shall be "Firsts."

Our Young Folks.

Lord Lytton's story of Kenelm Chillingly is a true and good book for our time, and shows how we are falling off in respect to the high ideal of the best days and characters. Our leading spirits in politics, poetry and art are rather old men than young ones. Bryant, Longfellow, Emerson and Tennyson are showing upon their heads the crown of silvery age. There seems to be a tendency among the young men of the passing years of grace to cynicism and artificial coldness of character. With them society is more an enforced assembling of hermits than a natural union of congenial elements. The atmosphere of recent scientific thought seems to affect them with a certain dryness and hardness, without causing them to rise into its upper currents of spirit and life. This is perhaps the natural result of a contented superficiality. Even college commencements are losing something of their literary and intellectual character. Whereas once upon a time the chief things in connection with them were the sermon, the speeches and the conferment of degrees, now the striplings are absorbed in spreads and dances, and other amusements of the carnal man. The deep, grave purposes for which we exist, if the whole thing is not a humbug and a farce, do not appear to recommend themselves to the men of this generation who are under forty. Dr. Osgood quotes Legouve, who wrote a brilliant book on "Fathers and Sons," to the effect that no Frenchman has a spark of enthusiasm until he reaches the age of forty. Students and our young folks generally are growing either silly or cynical. We go for all sorts of progress and favor all sorts of conservatism, but we want more naturalness and vim in society. "The earth," said the Indian chief, as he seated himself upon it, "is my mother." The more we draw life from her bosom the freer and happier we shall be, wasting less time and doing more work.

CURRENT TOPICS.

—New Orleans has 6,000 stores to let. The comment upon its reconstruction could not well be more severe.

—There begins to be a great deal of probability about the Poughkeepsie bridge. The men elected officers are all active, positive men, and are accustomed to push things.

—Brooklyn just now is the most sensational city on the continent. Its latest case seems to have miscarried, as Rodman has been left to pine in jail, when the understanding among the ring was that he should be pardoned out.

—The Hudson Register, an independent paper, and the Hudson Gazette, strongly Democratic, think the action of the Democratic state committee is a blunder. A political blunder is a terrible thing, almost equal to a crime.

—Senator Harlan and Representatives Orr and Palmer couldn't stand the Iowa press, and at last even they are among the paybackers. "While the lamp holds out to burn" the last back-payer man may become a paybacker.

—Joaquin Miller is probably as much overrated in England as it is possible for a man to be. His latest humbug is his "Life Among the Modocs," in which there is but one allusion to the Modocs and a vast deal of trashy nonsense. However, as Joaquin is happy in England we advise him to stay there. He isn't appreciated here.

—"The Steamboat Association," whatever that is, intend to employ counsel to defend the proprietors of the Wawasset in the government prosecution of them. Another illustration of the evil workings of associations for proscriptive protection of certain classes.

—The people of the West are never satisfied unless they are in a furor over some sort of exhibition, and their taste ranges from a circus to an exposition. Just now the exposition fever is raging, and the larger western cities are glorying in exhibitions, each, according to the tale of their own patrons, greater and grander than any of the others. Well, it's an excellent way to advertise a place—and make money.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

—Twelve buildings were burned in West Troy Saturday morning, with a loss of $40,000; insurance $25,000.

—The best speech at the Washington (Iowa) Grange Convention was made by a young lady, a farmer's daughter.

—Martin I. Townsend of Troy writes to the Times that he is not a candidate for Attorney General, nor does he desire the nomination.

—Gen. Custar's battle with the Indians was a severe one, lasting from 11.30 A. M. and continuing until 3 o'clock.

—The scalp of a "Modoc warrior, killed in the lava beds," recently came through the mail to a man at Brattleboro, Vt.

—It is announced that United States Senator Matthew H. Carpenter, of Wisconsin, will not prosecute the Tribune for libel.

—The greatest indignity ever heaped upon a lone lorn woman is that of the Detroit Free Press calling Susan Miss Single Bed Anthony.

—Michigan University is in favor with the fair sex, eighty-eight having entered this term. The Coming Woman will have a diploma.

—Elizabeth Stuart Phelps has been followed in "dress reform" by some ladies of Des Moines. They are devising what not to wear.

—Recently the water in the public tanks in Guayaquil became phosphorescent, and a general "aquatic drunkenness" of the people was the result.

—Bishop Randall of Wyoming territory narrowly escaped the scalping knife of the undiscriminating Sioux, while on an Episcopal tour, recently.

—Prince Arthur, upon being informed that the King of Denmark had conferred upon him the Order of the Elephant, immediately packed his trunk and fled.

—Helen Josephine Mansfield has been victimized out of £600 by a victim to her charms. Josephine can bear to lose several pounds and yet be presentable.

—A Leavenworth, Kansas, man wants to bet that his wife can walk 500 miles in three weeks. His design is too apparent, and she refuses to walk, having scruples against gambling.

—Nebraska named a town Vanderbilt and then wrote to the Commodore. He replied that he didn't care a d—n, and the way they changed the name of that town would have made his hair stand on end.

—The penal code of Lawrence, Kansas, makes no invidious distinctions on account of sex or color. A white woman was chained to a negro man, and the two were made to break stone in the street, recently.

—Mr. Brown, the "gentlemanly" night clerk of the Briggs House, Chicago, has narrowly escaped lynching by the employes of the establishment. He was too careless in handling a bell-boy.

Dix, Farmer, the electrician, Vice-President Wilson, Lewis Cass, U. S. Senator Grimes, U. S. Senator Chandler, Levi Woodbury, Horace Greeley, Gen. Butler, Franklin Pierce, Chief Justice Chase, and Chief Justice Chase of Maine.

—Oakes Ames' estate, it seems, figures up at only a couple of millions or so, instead of the reported half a dozen millions, or thereabouts. It is stated that the net result of all his Pacific Railroad operations and speculations turns out a positive loss.

—The surveys having been perfected and other preliminary arrangements completed, the work upon the Northern Division of the New York and Canada Railroad between Willsboro Bay and Little Ausable River will be commenced immediately.

—There is a loud and growing outcry against horse cars in London, which the commissioner of police declares are "daily becoming a greater nuisance to the general public," and it is quite probable that street railroads will soon cease to exist, at least in the heart of the city.

—Mississippi newspapers assert that only one Southern man holds a Federal office of importance in that State, and that his is a judicial appointment made by Andrew Johnson.

—The chaplain of the Sing Sing prison is trying to get a library for the use of the female convicts. The object is a good one. They should be well booked. The one thing prisoners are most interested in is leaves.

—Whittier is entertaining Senator Sumner and Longfellow at his house in Amesbury, Mass.

—A correspondent thus sings the praises of a favorite vehicle in the country: Having just turned away our eyes from beholding the turnouts of Long Branch and Saratoga, it was enchanting—that drive of twenty-five miles, from Schroon to Ticonderoga, by the buckboard wagon. If anyone does not know the merits of this vehicle, listen! It is a heavenly teter. Up hill and down dale, you swing along in a divine exhilaration which accomplishes a very long drive with less fatigue than in any other conveyance by horse.

Opening of the Oyster Trade.

The Baltimore American, of Saturday, speaking of the opening of the oyster trade, states that from ten to fifteen boats have been engaged in bringing up oysters during the past week, but it is expected that their number will be increased to forty or fifty on next Monday. The oysters that are brought to Baltimore in the first part of the season are fresh water natives that are "dredged" or "tongued" in Chester and Miles River, at Poplar Point, Summer's Point, Thomas Point, and Hacket's. These oysters have a poor flavor in the early part of the season, but as they fatten and the weather grows colder the flavor becomes greatly improved. They are not bedded and consequently many of them are small and unfit for use. As the demand in the early part of the season is only for immediate eating purposes, and not for packing, the boats bring light loads of from 150 to 200 bushels, and sell them on arrival at from 40 to 45 cents per bushels. Old oystermen predict a plentiful supply of these delicious bivalves this year, as the bedding last year is said to have been very extensive.

The Removal of the Red River Raft.

A New Orleans paper gives an extended account of the work done in destroying the immense accumulation of drift-wood in the Red River which has for years past checked all navigation there. The work is done under the supervision of Lieut. Woodruff, and the expenses defrayed by the National Government. Up to this time a channel sufficient for the purposes of navigation has been opened through four miles of a raft—that is, actual raft—but comprising a much large distance of actual outline of river. The saving is in enabling vessels to avoid the dangerous routes through Black Bayou. The whole obstruction originally comprised about seven miles of raft—there therefore remains about three and a half miles yet to be cleaned out. It is thought this will prove comparatively easy, although possibly requiring longer time on account of the great bulk of the upper raft and the greater breadth of the river. Lieut. Woodruff estimates that his work will be accomplished by the first day of November next. At the last session of Congress a second appropriation of $80,000 was made, and it is believed this will prove ample to complete the work; but Congress may adopt the views of Major Howell and make an additional appropriation for the destruction of all accumulations of drift-wood and trees growing near the river for several hundreds of miles beyond the present scene of operations. A new cotton region will be opened and utilized by the removal of the raft. The lands above it have hitherto been comparatively valueless. They will be reclaimed. Above and below the raft spreads out a royal country, whose power of production will soon be seen and felt in the cargoes of cotton it will send to New Orleans.

Pullman Cars.

An idea of the business done by the Pullman Palace Car Company may be obtained when it is known that these magnificent vehicles are now running on 152 different lines of railroad in the United States, that there are 700 of them in all, and that 120 new ones have just been completed. Twelve millions of dollars have been invested in the organization. Every car costs from $17,000 to $20,000, and one of them is running on the New York and Erie broad gauge which cost more than $50,000. About the 1st of September they will begin operations on one of the great English roads. A system is in progress under this extensive organization by which they will sell tickets in London, Paris, Berlin, or St. Petersburgh, and contract to convey passengers to San Francisco or any other point in the United States—including everything, not only ocean travel and the care of baggage, but also the commissariat of the traveler, so that he can either find his effects at his destination, or can step off several days and resume his journey.

The Fredericton, N. B., Express tells an extraordinary story. It appears that a mother was directed to use glycerine for a child that was suffering from a slight affection of the skin of the face. The mother faithfully following the directions, applied the glycerine as ordered; and the infant shortly afterward falling asleep, was put in its crib while the mother attended to her household duties.—Returning in about an hour she was horrified to find the child's face black and its breath almost stopped. Snatching up the babe the mother discovered that flies in immense numbers, attracted by the glycerine had covered the child's mouth and nostrils, and even crawled into its throat. In her alarm and excitement she wiped off as many flies as she could with her apron, and with her fingers and a spoon cleaned out its mouth and throat, when finding its breath growing weaker she dashed water over its face, and fortunately succeeded in restoring animation, and rescued her child from a horrible death.

The Syracuse Standard calls attention to a funny kink which has been discovered in the excise law, which is believed to render it entirely inoperative in all incorporated cities of the State. "The 22d section of the amended act is so construed that there is no power to prosecute for violations of the law in cities, but the overseers of poor of towns may sue for and recover the penalties. The attorney for the Board of Excise in New York is said to have expressed the opinion that the law is defective, and that consequently there is no properly constituted authority to prosecute for this specific violation of the law. The impression among the best informed is that the cities in this State are without a law to prevent the sale of intoxicating drinks, and those interested in the subject look forward with much anxiety to the construction a proper tribunal may give to section 22."

The English wheat crop is going to be below average this year and the United States will be called on to assist in making up the deficiency, which fortunately we are quite able to do and shall be happy to—for a consideration of course. The wheat average of Great Britain is 55,000 less than last year, and the yield is two bushels less to the acre. The expected crop is 92,400,000 bushels, of which 8,000,000 must be kept for seed, leaving 84,400,000 bushels toward supplying an annual consumption by the British people of 176,000,000 bushels. The balance must be supplied by importation from Russia and the United States. In 1872 Great Britain took 26,000,000 bushels from Russia, and only half as much from the United States. The wheat country of south Russia is scarcely surpassed in richness by our prairie States, while the degradation of the peasantry renders farm labor far cheaper than with us. This, with greater proximity to the market, gives Russia advantages over the United States in supplying western Europe with wheat.

The Daily Freeman.

Kingston, Monday Morning, Sept. 8.

The Troy people are making quite a time over the return of Minister Francis from Greece. Their welcome is hearty and worthily bestowed, for Mr. Francis is a good man. But let Troy extend no more welcomes to him, but keep him home. He can just as well be Minister to Greece in the editorial rooms of the Times, for we need a minister there about as much as a coach a fifth wheel.

Now that the probabilities are pretty positive that Washburn will get the nomination didn't some of the Republican papers come out for Ben. just a little too quick? The Times squinted, but a squint may be called the perfection of Butlerism. And now that the administration favored Butler's nomination is it beaten or not in Massachusetts?

It was popularly reported that Minister Mori was in very bad odor at home, and had been invited to commit hari kari, that neat and exceedingly convenient method of removing any distasteful statesmen the country is afflicted with. But it seems this is all a mistake, and instead of Mori being moribund through a slit stomach, he has been very favorably received, and will come back to this country as Minister once again, and is now making the rounds of his friends and eating and drinking of their best, for which latter he needs a more capacious and tighter stomach than he has ever had. We congratulate Mori, and hope he'll pare none of his flesh except his corns.

The Utica Herald has been advocating for some time with considerable reason the adoption of daylight caucuses. The caucus, where the party is in power, is responsible for most of the bad government, as its action is practically decisive in filling the offices. If the party is in the ascendancy the real fight is in the caucus, after which the whippers-in keep the masses in line and faithful to the "regular ticket." And the candidates are chosen by a system around which the law throws not a single safeguard, and the natural consequence is that the frauds of election day are multiplied a dozen-fold in the primaries. The adoption of the Herald's suggestion to have these primaries in the day-time instead of evening will prevent some of the frauds and help towards securing a square expression of the popular will.

Probably no road in the state has ever had so many well-wishers as the Midland, and certainly none has ever been the recipient of so many cash money favors from towns and municipalities. Everybody wished it well, and does yet, notwithstanding time is as yet an unknown quantity in its running, and accidents seem to be the normal occurrences on its line. But to the proposition to bond a lot more towns in the Ontario tier of counties to help build its branch to Buffalo, we opine there will be very substantial dissent from people generally. Bonding of towns in aid of railroads has become a stench in the nostrils of New Yorkers; the whole system has reeked with corruption and fraud, and grievous burdens have been fastened upon the people's shoulders. The begging of the people for favors and becoming their masters but a few months afterwards has become a serious matters with taxpayers.

That is a rather novel thing in criminal business, the Irving confession. Unsuspected and in no danger and far away from the scene of the murder, in California, he confesses to having committed the murder, and now the police won't believe him. He is popularly credited with the desire to procure a free ticket across the continent, and for that he has said he committed murder. Very plainly mankind has to invent some touchstone for evidence, if men will swear themselves guilty of crimes of which they are innocent, and we are quite thoroughly convinced men will swear others guilty when they never even thought of the crimes of which they are accused. To get out of the muddle and obtain something to justify them in having no faith in their own skepticism, they have telegraphed to Irving for the whereabouts of his wife. Seldom has so delicate an appeal been made, and doubtless Irving will hasten to produce the woman who will prove he isn't a liar. Irving would clearly rather commit a murder than lie about it.

Those confounded panniers! What a sight of trouble they have caused the lynx-eyed custom officers and how often they have conveyed ashore valuables whose presence was all unsuspected by the men watching to detect smuggling! And here we have another case. A poor despairing wife visits her husband in the Memphis jail, where he is confined for high crimes and misdemeanors—She passes meekly and humbly along, the guard, perhaps in his sympathy for her great distress, forgetting the vigilance which is ever the price of keeping a horse thief safely "jugged" as well as liberty, and fails to notice that there is a peculiar appearance about her drooping panier betokening the presence of some unusual object. Pretty soon she comes out, her husband with her, and when the gate is reached up he pops a revolver, demanding "Liberty or death"—only it's the death of the sentinel he demands; so the latter, to whom the last alternative is unpleasant, dodges back and the horse thief is off like the wind on a horse all ready for him. Then the woman laughs in her sleeve to think how she fooled the stupid, confiding men. Oh, these woman! and these ridiculous panniers!

Best and Second Best.

To anybody who makes a study of the relations between things an interesting phase of this subject will be the close approach of the best and second best. Probably the ablest man in the world, all things considered, is but the shadow of a shade abler than the next in line. In the quality of imagination one artist is a degree better than another, while that other exceeds him in painting accessories or in grouping. Mr Bonner's trotting horse, Joe Elliott, made his mile in 2:15¼ last June on the Mystic Part course, being one and one quarter seconds faster than Goldsmith Maid on the same track in the same month of the same year. And these two noble horses have beaten all others in trotting, if we may trust the record of the American Trotting Turf Association. Certainly steamboats on the Hudson river have each their special admirers, who believe their favorite to be the fatest boat. Yet there is always an unsolved question about it. So far as reliable statements of their speed go, there is no material difference between them and if there is it is so slight as to be worthless except perhaps as the basis of a wager. Between the man who came to be king and his vassal who at one time might have been, the odds lay in the accident of casual wit or incidental shrewdness.

Let the second bests take heart of grace.—They would all have been best but for the freaks of fickle fortune, and the urgent needs of mathematics for No. 2. The elephant's instinct and the fool's reason will be reversed in favor of the elephant when we have better standards of judgment; then also lots of other "Lasts" shall be "Firsts."

Our Young Folks.

Lord Lytton's story of Kenelm Chillingly is a true and good book for our time, and shows how we are falling off in respect to the high ideal of the best days and characters. Our leading spirits in politics, poetry and art are rather old men than young ones. Bryant, Longfellow, Emerson and Tennyson are showing upon their heads the crown of silvery age. There seems to be a tendency among the young men of the passing years of grace to cynicism and artificial coldness of character. With them society is more an enforced assembling of hermits than a natural union of congenial elements. The atmosphere of recent scientific thought seems to affect them with a certain dryness and hardness, without causing them to rise into its upper currents of spirit and life. This is perhaps the natural result of a contented superficiality. Even college commencements are losing something of their literary and intellectual character. Whereas once upon a time the chief things in connection with them were the sermon, the speeches and the conferment of degrees, now the striplings are absorbed in spreads and dances, and other amusements of the carnal man. The deep, grave purposes for which we exist, if the whole thing is not a humbug and a farce, do not appear to recommend themselves to the men of this generation who are under forty. Dr. Osgood quotes Legouve, who wrote a brilliant book on "Fathers and Sons," to the effect that no Frenchman has a spark of enthusiasm until he reaches the age of forty. Students and our young folks generally are growing either silly or cynical. We go for all sorts of progress and favor all sorts of conservatism, but we want more naturalness and vim in society. "The earth," said the Indian chief, as he seated himself upon it, "is my mother." The more we draw life from her bosom the freer and happier we shall be, wasting less time and doing more work.

CURRENT TOPICS.

—New Orleans has 6,000 stores to let. The comment upon its reconstruction could not well be more severe.

—There begins to be a great deal of probability about the Poughkeepsie bridge. The men elected officers are all active, positive men, and are accustomed to push things.

—Brooklyn just now is the most sensational city on the continent. Its latest case seems to have miscarried, as Rodman has been left to pine in jail, when the understanding among the ring was that he should be pardoned out.

—The Hudson Register, an independent paper, and the Hudson Gazette, strongly Democratic, think the action of the Democratic state committee is a blunder. A political blunder is a terrible thing, almost equal to a crime.

—Senator Harlan and Representatives Orr and Palmer couldn't stand the Iowa press, and at last even they are among the paybackers. "While the lamp holds out to burn" the last back-payer man may become a paybacker.

—Joaquin Miller is probably as much overrated in England as it is possible for a man to be. His latest humbug is his "Life Among the Modocs," in which there is but one allusion to the Modocs and a vast deal of trashy nonsense. However, as Joaquin is happy in England we advise him to stay there. He isn't appreciated here.

—"The Steamboat Association," whatever that is, intend to employ counsel to defend the proprietors of the Wawasset in the government prosecution of them. Another illustration of the evil workings of associations for proscriptive protection of certain classes.

—The people of the West are never satisfied unless they are in a furor over some sort of exhibition, and their taste ranges from a circus to an exposition. Just now the exposition fever is raging, and the larger western cities are glorying in exhibitions, each, according to the tale of their own patrons, greater and grander than any of the others. Well, it's an excellent way to advertise a place—and make money.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

—A Union Square man offers Captain Jack's coat for sale.

—Twelve buildings were burned in West Troy Saturday morning, with a loss of $40,000; insurance $25,000.

—An attempt to help the Bank of England forgers to escape has been discovered and frustrated.

—The best speech at the Washington (Iowa) Grange Convention was made by a young lady, a farmer's daughter.

—Martin I. Townsend of Troy writes to the Times that he is not a candidate for Attorney General, nor does he desire the nomination.

—Gen. Custar's battle with the Indians was a severe one, lasting from 11.30 A. M. and continuing until 3 o'clock.

—The annual season for fatal accidents to little boys from falling off the roofs of buildings while flying kites has begun.

—Michigan University is in favor with the fair sex, eighty-eight having entered this term. The Coming Woman will have a diploma.

—Elizabeth Stuart Phelps has been followed in "dress reform" by some ladies of Des Moines. They are devising what not to wear.

—Recently the water in the public tanks in Guayaquil became phosphorescent, and a general "aquatic drunkenness" of the people was the result.

—Bishop Randall of Wyoming territory narrowly escaped the scalping knife of the undiscriminating Sioux, while on an Episcopal tour, recently.

—Prince Arthur, upon being informed that the King of Denmark had conferred upon him the Order of the Elephant, immediately packed his trunk and fled.

—Helen Josephine Mansfield has been victimized out of £600 by a victim to her charms. Josephine can bear to lose several pounds and yet be presentable.

—A Leavenworth, Kansas, man wants to bet that his wife can walk 500 miles in three weeks. His design is too apparent, and she refuses to walk, having scruples against gambling.

—Nebraska named a town Vanderbilt and then wrote to the Commodore. He replied that he didn't care a d—n, and the way they changed the name of that town would have made his hair stand on end.

—The penal code of Lawrence, Kansas, makes no invidious distinctions on account of sex or color. A white woman was chained to a negro man, and the two were made to break stone in the street, recently.

—Mr. Brown, the "gentlemanly" night clerk of the Briggs House, Chicago, has narrowly escaped lynching by the employes of the establishment. He was too careless in handling a bell-boy.

THE NOVA SCOTIA GALE.

Still Further Particulars.

Halifax, Sept. 7.—Additional particulars of the recent disastrous storm on this coast show thirty vessels with all hands were lost in North Bay alone. Of this number the names of only three American schooners have been ascertained—J. G. Starr, Charles C. Doane and Carrie E. Rich. The loss on shore is immense. The farmers of Cape Breton whose barns and crops were destroyed are threatened with starvation, as are also the fishermen deprived by the loss of their vessels of means of support. On the Nova Scotia side of the Straits of Canso nearly all the wharves, with large quantities of mackerel, &c., were washed away. There are two wrecks off Black Rock light, Cape Breton, one of which is supposed to be the Eureka of New York, all hands lost. Fifty-six vessels are reported ashore at Arichot. Vessels arriving report passing wrecked and abandoned vessels in every direction and all that have escaped wreck are badly damaged.

When the guard opened the gate White presented a cocked revolver at his head and cried out "Let me go or die!" The guard sprang back and White darted out and mounted a horse which was in waiting and dashed off before the alarm could be given. His wife had carried the revolver concealed in her panier and had the horse in waiting. She was arrested.

Opening of the Oyster Trade.

The Baltimore American, of Saturday, speaking of the opening of the oyster trade, states that from ten to fifteen boats have been engaged in bringing up oysters during the past week, but it is expected that their number will be increased to forty or fifty on next Monday. The oysters that are brought to Baltimore in the first part of the season are fresh water natives that are "dredged" or "tongued" in Chester and Miles River, at Poplar Point, Summer's Point, Thomas Point, and Hacket's. These oysters have a poor flavor in the early part of the season, but as they fatten and the weather grows colder the flavor becomes greatly improved. They are not bedded and consequently many of them are small and unfit for use. As the demand in the early part of the season is only for immediate eating purposes, and not for packing, the boats bring light loads of from 150 to 200 bushels, and sell them on arrival at from 40 to 45 cents per bushels. Old oystermen predict a plentiful supply of these delicious bivalves this year, as the bedding last year is said to have been very extensive.

The Removal of the Red River Raft.

A New Orleans paper gives an extended account of the work done in destroying the immense accumulation of drift-wood in the Red River which has for years past checked all navigation there. The work is done under the supervision of Lieut. Woodruff, and the expenses defrayed by the National Government. Up to this time a channel sufficient for the purposes of navigation has been opened through four miles of a raft—that is, actual raft—but comprising a much large distance of actual outline of river. The saving is in enabling vessels to avoid the dangerous routes through Black Bayou. The whole obstruction originally comprised about seven miles of raft—there therefore remains about three and a half miles yet to be cleaned out. It is thought this will prove comparatively easy, although possibly requiring longer time on account of the great bulk of the upper raft and the greater breadth of the river. Lieut. Woodruff estimates that his work will be accomplished by the first day of November next. At the last session of Congress a second appropriation of $80,000 was made, and it is believed this will prove ample to complete the work; but Congress may adopt the views of Major Howell and make an additional appropriation for the destruction of all accumulations of drift-wood and trees growing near the river for several hundreds of miles beyond the present scene of operations. A new cotton region will be opened and utilized by the removal of the raft. The lands above it have hitherto been comparatively valueless. They will be reclaimed. Above and below the raft spreads out a royal country, whose power of production will soon be seen and felt in the cargoes of cotton it will send to New Orleans.

Pullman Cars.

An idea of the business done by the Pullman Palace Car Company may be obtained when it is known that these magnificent vehicles are now running on 152 different lines of railroad in the United States, that there are 700 of them in all, and that 120 new ones have just been completed. Twelve millions of dollars have been invested in the organization. Every car costs from $17,000 to $20,000, and one of them is running on the New York and Erie broad gauge which cost more than $50,000. About the 1st of September they will begin operations on one of the great English roads. A system is in progress under this extensive organization by which they will sell tickets in London, Paris, Berlin, or St. Petersburgh, and contract to convey passengers to San Francisco or any other point in the United States—including everything, not only ocean travel and the care of baggage, but also the commissariat of the traveler, so that he can either find his effects at his destination, or can step off several days and resume his journey.

The Fredericton, N. B., Express tells an extraordinary story. It appears that a mother was directed to use glycerine for a child that was suffering from a slight affection of the skin of the face. The mother faithfully following the directions, applied the glycerine as ordered; and the infant shortly afterward falling asleep, was put in its crib while the mother attended to her household duties.—Returning in about an hour she was horrified to find the child's face black and its breath almost stopped. Snatching up the babe the mother discovered that flies in immense numbers, attracted by the glycerine had covered the child's mouth and nostrils, and even crawled into its throat. In her alarm and excitement she wiped off as many flies as she could with her apron, and with her fingers and a spoon cleaned out its mouth and throat, when finding its breath growing weaker she dashed water over its face, and fortunately succeeded in restoring animation, and rescued her child from a horrible death.

The Syracuse Standard calls attention to a funny kink which has been discovered in the excise law, which is believed to render it entirely inoperative in all incorporated cities of the State. "The 22d section of the amended act is so construed that there is no power to prosecute for violations of the law in cities, but the overseers of poor of towns may sue for and recover the penalties. The attorney for the Board of Excise in New York is said to have expressed the opinion that the law is defective, and that consequently there is no properly constituted authority to prosecute for this specific violation of the law. The impression among the best informed is that the cities in this State are without a law to prevent the sale of intoxicating drinks, and those interested in the subject look forward with much anxiety to the construction a proper tribunal may give to section 22."

The English wheat crop is going to be below average this year and the United States will be called on to assist in making up the deficiency, which fortunately we are quite able to do and shall be happy to—for a consideration of course. The wheat average of Great Britain is 55,000 less than last year, and the yield is two bushels less to the acre. The expected crop is 92,400,000 bushels, of which 8,000,000 must be kept for seed, leaving 84,400,000 bushels toward supplying an annual consumption by the British people of 176,000,000 bushels. The balance must be supplied by importation from Russia and the United States. In 1872 Great Britain took 26,000,000 bushels from Russia, and only half as much from the United States. The wheat country of south Russia is scarcely surpassed in richness by our prairie States, while the degradation of the peasantry renders farm labor far cheaper than with us. This, with greater proximity to the market, gives Russia advantages over the United States in supplying western Europe with wheat.

LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

CITY NOTES.

—The sheriff locked up a Division street grocery store on Friday.

—The new Presbyterian church is now the object of most interest to visitors. The towers make some very pointed observations.

—After this morning until the close of her season the Mary Powell will leave this city at 6 A. M.

—The tide was so low on Saturday evening the Sleightburgh ferry-boat was detained from landing in her slip on this side for some time.

—It is a very unsafe thing to spit from an upper window upon the sidewalk. It feels very unpleasant to a new bonnet.

—Music Hall audiences are getting troubled lately with the whistling fever; this when united with the music of a jewsharp is very delightful.

—The Wiltwyck Mission Sunday School already demonstrates that it supplies a need. It has an average attendance of more than a hundred.

—Mr. Sahler, of the Wallkill Valley Railway, has furnished a railing along the dangerous embankment, where the railroad crosses the highway.

—Wanted—a number of boys to sell Daily Freemans, every morning. Smart, active boys, with legs and voices, can make money. Apply at the counting-room.

—A young man with a white pilot house hat and side wheel whiskers, came rolling his vest pockets full of sand down Division street on Sunday, and sailed away in the James W. Baldwin.

—If Mr. Bergh will come to this burgh we think he can find enough to occupy his time. Why, the Roe family alone can make it vigorous and lively for him. Come, gentle spirit, come!

—The grass upon the flats in the creek have, within a few days, turned from a vivid green to a golden hue, and now it is time to look for local editors to quote Bryant's "the melancholy days are come."

—John Van Deusen, a well-known uptown bachelor, left his hotel the other day in a very mysterious manner. He packed up his trunk with clothing and medicines, and it is supposed he has started for the Vienna Exposition, or Port Jervis. It may be he has gone on a medicinal tour to distribute the well-known cure-all called Ten Broeck Balm.

—A young man who jams wind in Goeller's band, while in a high state of beer on Friday, took a very frantic ride with a horse belonging to one Mr. Brown, and the said Brown has got a warrant for the arrest of the gay and gallant wind jammer, and proposes to make him show cause why he shall run off with Brown's horse, returning in a high perspiration and dead lame.

—Sam Sharpley and Sheridan and Mack's combination show gave the best humorous entertainment in Washington Hall on Saturday evening ever given in this city. It was very funny and in strictly good taste. Sharpley is a whole show himself, and he does his stage business as if he enjoyed it as much as his audience does. Come again, Samuel, and bring 'em all back with you.

Coal Arrival.

On Saturday 60 canal boats laden with 7,642 tons of coal reached tide water at Eddyville through the Delaware & Hudson canal.

Horse Stolen.

On Saturday evening while Mr. William Hutton's horse and wagon were tied in front of Mr. Kerr's place on Abeel street some person more enterprising than honest went off with the establishment, and we believe it has not yet been heard from.

Fearful Accident.

On Saturday evening a laborer named John Mack fell down into Brigham's quarry at Creek Locks, a distance of between sixty and seventy feet. We did not hear positively the result, but suppose he must have sustained mortal injuries, if he was not killed outright.

Candidates.

The following are candidates for the Democratic nomination for Supreme Court Judge:—Judge Van Alstyne and ex-County Judge Clute of Albany, A. Schoonmaker, Jr., and T. R. Westbrook of Ulster, Judge Osborn of Greene, Judges Danforth and Mitchell of Schoharie.

Heavy Stone.

A stone from Fitch's quarry, twenty feet long and eighteen feet wide, weighing ten tons, was drawn through Wall street Saturday morning on its way to the dock at Wilbur.

Sewing Machine Case.

John street uptown has been enlivened with another sewing machine case. The parties are Webster L. Barriger agst. Charles F. Chapman, and the plaintiff claimed he had sold four machines for the defendant, on which he claimed commissions to the amount of sixty-six dollars and fifty-nine cents. The justice gave judgment for plaintiff in the sum of forty-two dollars and twenty-one cents.

Sporting.

There was a nice little trot on the Kingston track Saturday afternoon, a match race for fifty dollars between the roan mare of Luther Hoffman and the gray mare of William Shader. Hoffman's mare won in two straight heats; there was no time given, as the owners do not want their horses to have a record. A number of sporting gentlemen witnessed the race, which was close and quite interesting.

Attempted Suicide.

Mrs. John Miller, who resides on Hasbrouck avenue in the lower portion of this city, had some dispute with her husband on Saturday afternoon which so worked upon her mind she attempted to commit suicide by swallowing about two ounces of aqua ammonia. The ammonia caused excessive vomiting, and thus the woman's attempt on her life was frustrated. The result of the dose is severe inflammation of the throat and stomach, which leaves Mrs. Miller in a dangerous condition.

A Happy Printer.

Last evening at the residence of the bride's mother in Matteawan, Mr. Amos A. Decker, a compositor in The Freeman establishment, was united in marriage to Miss Phœbe E. Brundage. The ceremony took place at 8 o'clock and was witnessed by a considerable party of the relatives and friends of the young bride and groom. May the newly wedded couple, in the words of Rip Van Winkle, "live long and prosper."

Stone for the East River Bridge.

Messrs. Madden & Noone are quarrying stone for the East River bridge at what is known as "Flat Rocks," off Pearl street avenue, in the upper portion of the city. The "Flat Rocks" have been for a long while a favorite resort of pic-nickers, and people who like a short and convenient walk in the woods, if this grove may be called a woods. It is said Messrs. Madden & Noone have a hundred men or more at work, and the stone is not blasted, but drilled and wedged apart. All the blocks are large and each one weighs several tons.

ALONG THE RIVER.

Albany is to be supplied with slop water from its nasty canal basin. It is said to taste like green turtle soup that has been struck by blue lightning.

The schooner yacht Lurline, owned by Mr. Philip Phoenix, which has been on a cruise to Hudson, passed the mouth of the Rondout on Saturday afternoon, bound south.

The citizens of Hudson have been victimized by a beat, calling himself E. Douglas, professing to represent a New York firm, by procuring subscriptions for a thermometer with business cards. A number paid their money, but have never received a thermometer.

Messrs. J. R. & H. S. Baldwin, proprietors of the New Baltimore ship-yards, on Tuesday launched a large barge, which is destined for the coal trade. This new vessel belongs to the Delaware & Hudson Canal Company, and was built for the especial business of carrying coal. She arrived at the docks of the Company in this city on Saturday last.

The moonlight excursion to be given to-night on board the Mary Powell by Messrs. Betts and Bishop will without doubt be a pleasant affair. All who desire a moonlight sail on the beautiful Hudson in its most picturesque portions, and on one of the handsomest of steamers, should not fail to embrace this opportunity.

Tides.

High Water at Rondout Light House to-day at 12 M. and 12 P. M.

Personal.

Mr. S. Weiner, the Garden street merchant, has been sojourning for some days at Long Branch, but on Saturday last he went to Sharon Springs for the benefit of the mineral waters.

Substantial Dock.

Neidlinger & Schmidt, the firm which owns the malt-house and large ice house at South Rondout, have contracted with Messrs. Gage & Powley, dock builders, of this city, for the construction of a new dock along their entire water front. The piles are to be of oak and the timber of chestnut, and as the firm which is to do the work always make a substantial job, Neidlinger & Schmidt will have a solid dock front.

Numerous.

The number of candidates for office that flood the upper part of the city is getting to be alarming. The other day no less than fourteen were in the court-house yard, and Saturday seven interviewed our uptown reporter. It is almost impossible now-a-days to walk the street without finding it at some point blockaded with a knot of candidates discussing their own particular qualification for the offices of sheriff and county clerk.

An Excursion.

On Friday last an excursion party from Highland visited this city and pic-nicked in Crane's grove at Ponckhockie. During the afternoon the party, headed by their band, marched to Mr. Walter B. Crane's residence and serenaded the family. The Deacon was absent from home, but Henry was equal to the occasion, for mounting the railing of the verandah he electrified that pic-nic with a speech. No cards.

The Bell of the Season.

What has been said in The Freeman about the ringing of the Second Reformed Church bell, has, it seems, been to some effect; for the Consistory of that congregation have finally resolved upon a change in the hour of ringing, and the bell will henceforth chime in with the rest. No doubt this will be good news to the church-goers of other denominations in the upper part of the city who have heretofore been so much annoyed. If we have been correctly informed, the bell will hereafter be rung at half-past ten in the morning; but meeting will not open until a quarter of eleven o'clock.

Beer Barrel Burst.

On Saturday last while John Maxwell, the brewer, was driving through Wilbur with a half barrel of ale in his wagon the barrel burst with a report like a bursting bombshell, and the malt liquor flew into the air like the jet of a fountain. The little incident proved how energetic the rising generation of that lively portion of our city is, for in an instant after its occurrence from thirty-two points of the compass could be seen hoodlums gathering with all manner of beer-holding vessels to catch the frothy tide.

A Trifling Request.

A young gentleman was walking along one of our city streets the other evening in the moonlight, leisurely swinging his cane, when he met two young girls, and one of them accosted him thus: "Say, Mister, this here girl says she would like to kiss you." The young man stopped and said, "Well, she may." But the damsel did not come to time, for she exclaimed, "Oh, Sallie! what a story! I never said no such thing!" Thus it ever is on this sublunary sphere; our fondest anticipations are raised to a high pitch by some frolicsome wave of hope, and we are about to realize the goal of our desires, when suddenly something comes to knock it all over, and our metaphors, as well as anticipations, get mixed.

Disgraceful Affair.

Ponckhockie was again the scene on Sunday morning of a most disgraceful affair. A fight took place in Conolan's saloon in which a gang of roughs who frequent that portion or Ponckhockie badly hurt a boarder. They afterwards came outside and broke some glass in the windows. They then went for a milkman who was peddling his milk near there. Some of the party held the horse while the others got all the milk they wanted without pay. A number of our best citizens on their way to church had to stop their horses and wait the pleasure of these young outlaws. One of the gang, after smashing some windows, struck at a young man, standing on the corner, with an old shovel, and would have split his skull had he not dodged very quickly. The ruffian followed him afterwards some distance, threatening him. They then went on the opposite corner and broke in the windows of Mr. Stebbins' small house. One of the principal actors in the affray was William Legg, who is now under bonds for assaulting Mrs. Diehl. Another principal was a young man named Fox. It is about time this Ponckhockie gang is brought to justice; they breed violence continually. Especially should young Legg be taken care of.

"On the Saugerties Road."

The above is the title of the minor pictures on the first page of the Daily Graphic newspaper, for Wednesday last. The cut represents three children coming back from school with their books in their hands. There are two girls and a boy, and the boy's hat and the girls' sunbonnets occupy most of the room in the sketch. The view is taken from the rear, and the girls appear to have black stockings on—a somewhat unusual kind of clothing for summer, we should say. This is probably the most notable view of the Saugerties road we have ever seen; for it appears to be a road the young ones are walking on, though you need the notice underneath, "On the Saugerties Road," to make you feel sure; and if anybody who is acquainted with the Saugerties road were to see the bit of road sketched in the Graphic we suspect he would be just a little bothered to tell at what point the view was taken from. The artist says the children are "coming back from school" and he represents them going. This picture is one of those things no fellow can understand, and for dreariness is almost equal to a lecture by Eli Perkins, or one of that poor chap's letters to the Graphic.

Death of Mr. George Diamond.

Mr. George Diamond, a prominent merchant and citizen of our neighboring village of Eddyville, died at his residence in that place in an unexpected manner on Sunday morning, about 7 o'clock. He had been unwell with throat complaints for some months and at one time it was supposed he could not recover, but he did rally and was apparently gaining his usual health and attending to his extensive business, when the fatal blow was struck while he was at the breakfast table on the morning above mentioned. Mr. Diamond's parents came to Eddyville during the construction of the Delaware & Hudson Canal, on which work the father of the writer of this sketch was employed, George, the eldest, being then a young child of five or six years.—In 1828 the Diamonds moved to Rondout and occupied a small house near the lower end of what are now Hon. Thomas Cornell's grounds, back of where Captain Mapes built a large stone building that was intended for an iron foundry, since torn down. In about 1833 George's father bought the land on which the hotel and stables of Mr. Thomas Hamilton stand. The land consisted of two lots, purchased from Mr. Abraham Hasbrouck for $200 each, and were the second lots sold of "the big meadow"—the corner of Division and Mill streets, occupied by the O'Reilly building, being the first one. On his purchase the elder Diamond erected what is now the Hamilton Hotel, which he kept for many years and where most of the brothers and sisters of George were born. The hotel was built in 1834 and George lived there with his parents until he was nearly a man grown, when he went on the river, it being in 1843, "the yellow fever summer," as first deck hand or mate of the Victory, which boat then towed the Company's barges and did the freight and passenger business out of Rondout Creek and made but two trips each week.

In 1849 George was married to Miss Mary Ryan, in the house now occupied by Mr. Mozier North on Wurts street, then owned and occupied by Mr. James S. McEntee, in whose family Miss Ryan lived, having moved from the old Mansion House with them; and some of our older residents will remember her, for she was a universal favorite with the guests of that old hostelry. In the same year Mr. Diamond went in business in Eddyville, where he has ever since continued to reside upon the spot where he first took his young wife, where his children, seven of whom are still living, were born, and where he accumulated a large fortune.

George Diamond was well known in this community as an upright, thoroughly honest business man, a law abiding citizen, a conscientious member of the Catholic church, a loving husband and father, and a kind-hearted, helpful friend. He was a modest, retiring man, whose principal enjoyment was found within his own home circle, but his friends were many, and outside of his own family he will be mourned by those for whom the road of life was made less rough by their meeting with George Diamond upon it.

Mr. Diamond was about fifty-four years of age, and, besides his wife and seven children, he leaves two brothers and four sisters in this city to mourn his death in the prime of his manhood.

Poughkeepsie Bridge.

On Friday last the stockholders of the Poughkeepsie Bridge Company met at their office in that city for the purpose of electing Directors. 11,680 shares were voted on, the whole number being cast for the following gentlemen, who were thereupon declared elected:

J. Edgar Thomson, Philadelphia, President Pennsylvania R. R.

Thomas A. Scott, Philadelphia, Vice President Pennsylvania R. R.

A. L. Dennis, Newark, President N. J. R. R. & T. Co.

H. G. Eastman, Poughkeepsie.

Andrew Carnegie, New York, of the Keystone Bridge Works and Union Iron Mills of Pittsburgh.

Charles G. Francklyn, New York, Cunard Steamship Co.

David Salomon, New York, Financial Agent Penn. R. R. Co.

Andrew J. Cassatt, Philadelphia, General Manager Penn. R. R. Co.

Geo. P. Pelton, Poughkeepsie, President P. & E. R. R.

P. P. Dickinson, Poughkeepsie.

Strickland Kneass, Philadelphia, Assistant Prest. Penn. R. R. Co.

Gardiner F. McCandless, New York, Treas. I. M. & N. R. R. Co.

A meeting of the newly chosen Directors was held immediately upon the adjournment of the stockholders' meeting, at which the following officers were elected:

President—A. L. Dennis.
Vice President—H. G. Eastman.
Treasurer—G. F. McCandless.
Secretary—Chas. B. Thurston.
Assistant Secretary and Attorney—R. F. Wilkinson.

The party of railroad men in Poughkeepsie on Friday spent some time in looking over the proposed line for the bridge, and also visited the Clearwater stone quarries in Mr. Taylor's steamer Bessie. They propose to begin active operations of construction at once. Mr. Lindville, the Engineer in Chief will be in the city to-day.

Attempt at Burglary.

Mr. Rosenblatt, a gentleman from New York city, who has been spending the summer in this city, residing in a house corner of East Front and Cedar streets, had his residence broken into Friday night, but the thief was discovered and escaped without carrying off anything. Mr. K. and his wife went out that evening to take a walk up street and left in charge of the house a female servant and an old lady, the mother of Mr. R. About 9:30 the neighbors near by heard cries and screams issuing from the house, and running out to learn the cause, heard the girl call out "for God's sake come and help us, they have broken in the door." Some four men hurried to the house, and told the girl to let them in, but the women were so frightened they didn't dare venture down stairs, and while the men were parleying what to do, the burglar cut around the corner and started for the woods at Jacob's Valley. Some of the party started after him, but he proved too fleet of foot for them, and escaped. It was found the lock of the outer door had been picked, but the burglar had been unable to open the inside door.

Young Men's Christian Association.

The Eighth Annual Convention of the Young Men's Christian Associations of this state, will be held at Amsterdam, opening on Wednesday, September 24th, at 3½ o'clock P. M., and closing on the following Friday night.

Several papers will be read and discussed on important features of the work of the Associations, and it is anticipated that the sessions will be full of interest.

Pastors of churches, and young men from places where there are no Associations, are invited to attend. They will meet with the same hospitable welcome from the citizens of Amsterdam as the regular delegates, and will participate freely in the discussions of the Convention.

Several visitors are expected to be present who are prominent in Association work in other states.

Southern Pine Lumber.

The schooner Lizzie Evans is now discharging a cargo of yellow pine and cypress lumber on W. B. Crane's dock, Ponckhockie, from the mill of D. R. Smith & Co., Britton's Ferry, South Carolina.

—The Wirtembergh has a library, as every church should have, and has added 400 volumes to it, as it ought. The church has our distinguished approval.

Quixstar.

QUIXSTAR, a novel, by the author of "Blindpits." New York, G. P. Putnam's Sons, 4th Avenue and 23d street, 1873.

The scene of this story is laid in Scotland in a quiet village called Quixstar, which, in popular pronunciation, "has been reduced to Quicksir and even Quicker." The author says of the characters of the story: "It would appear that the people of this history belong to the middle class, possibly even to what is called the lower middle class, that unfortunate section of society around which it is difficult to throw an interest." But the author succeeds, be it difficult or not, in throwing an interest about the people whom he has pictured, and the reader's attention is held throughout by the anticipation the story itself begets by the quaint humor that flashes here and there, and by the rare beauty and terseness of the author's style. The novel deals with two and even three generations, with the fathers and mothers, their children and grandchildren. Peter Veitch is a gardener whose son, Peter Veitch, goes to sea and becomes captain of a vessel. Mr. Sinclair is a retired tobacconist and a bachelor. Mrs. Sinclair is his brother's widow and the mother of Bell, Effie and Tom. She is devoted to her children, and when her son is setting off to become a banker she can say to him:

"You have excellent introductions, and people should try to be acquainted with those above than rather than below—those who are better than themselves, and they are sure to improve both in mind and manners."

"But if a lot of fellows insist on improving themselves by sticking to me, what am I to do—that is, fellows below me?"

"You need not encourage them. There's no difficulty in that, Tom."

"Shake them off? And if the people better than me shake me off?"

"They won't do that, that's entirely different."

"I don't see it. I've read in books that we should always choose the best society. Pity the best society; it would need to strengthen its rails."

Maddy, or Magdalen Fairgreve, is very Scotch, and is Mrs. Sinclair's "faithful servant." Mr. Gilbert keeps the village school, and, though a worthy man, is easily elated or depressed, is continually thinking of himself and taking slights when they are not intended. Mr. Doubleday is the tutor of the young Sinclairs and is described as being "not tall, and he was thin; a downy film was on his chin and upper lip, although he looked old enough to have grown a heavier crop; the corners of his mouth were turned up a little on his cheeks, which gave it a crescent shape, the effect of which was peculiar, and he had no forehead to speak of, or if he had, it was hidden by the hair, growing far down on it, and then standing sheer up like the scrubby verdure on the side of a steep hill. Nor was this exterior lighted up as it ought to have been by the soul within; on the contrary, his face might have been that of a sheep, for all you could read in it. Perhaps the soul found it difficult to get up an effective illumination through the small, dim, short-sighted eyes that served it for windows." This would probably be taken by most readers for a description of the scoundrel of the plot, yet Mr. Doubleday is far from being anything of the kind. He is quiet in his demeanor, and in the true sense of the word appears to be a gentleman, though he does not dress elegantly enough to suit Mrs. Sinclair and is somewhat absent-minded at times. There are other characters "too numerous to mention" and incidents of love and death, voyage and shipwreck. The story is healthy in tone, and much superior to the average foreign novels. For sale by F. S. Wynkoop.

ADVICE FOR EVERYBODY THAT COSTS NOBODY ANYTHING.—Lotions and cosmetics make a superficial coating on the skin, give an artificial color easily seen, but are vilely destructive of the color, texture and pliability of the skin itself. Wrinkled, haggard and prematurely old looking, exactly describe the appearance of those who habitually "paint their faces." If you would have the clear transparent, healthy and soft tinted complexion which nature gives, free from pimples, tan, freckles, or all other disfigurements, use Hand Sapolio—the most effective and fragrant toilet soap ever manufactured. Sold by all dealers at 10 and 15 cents a cake.

Cure for Piles.

Vincent's Magic pile remedy is the most perfect cure for Purites or itching Piles ever offered to the public. It is warranted to give relief to the worst cases in forty-eight hours after the commencement of its use, if the directions for using are complied with. Price 50 cents per box. G. E. Vincent, Proprietor, Catskill, N. Y. At Wholesale and Retail by Van Deusen Brothers.

Soreness of the breast or lungs, or liver difficulties, are relieved by placing two or three thickness of flannel wet with Renne's Pain-Killing Magic Oil over the soreness when retiring to bed at night. Try it. One application will help you very much. Sold by R. Deyo and all druggists in Rondout and Kingston.

Peaches.

The peaches that our citizens buy from those traveling peach orchards in our streets for their families must be rather a poor luxury.—Roasting and drying in the sun all day is enough to kill the best fruit that grows.

Smokers.

You that consider yourself judges of the FRAGRANT HAVANA WEED, step into C. L. Edmonds' emporium and ask for the LA TUBEROSA. They don't cost but FIVE CENTS and are pronounced first chop by connoisseurs. Try them and be convinced.

AUTUMN IS AT THE DOOR!
THE FALL SEWING MUST BE COMMENCED?
Are You Properly Prepared?
We cannot offer you much in way of STITCHING, but are on hand to help you efficiently as possible by furnishing the
GOODS NOW WANTED
for outfits for your girls, clothing for your boys and all the various articles demanded for family comfort, housekeeping conveniences and the pleasant equipment of home.
Our plans for the fall are:
To Keep a Better Stock
Than usual, to push our trade in handsome and substantial goods as rapidly as demand will justify, and to stand fast by the honored principle that has made our store popular and our business successful, viz.:
ONE PRICE TO ALL
And the fair truth as to quality of what we sell.
At the opening of the fall season we take occasion to correct some evident misapprehension as to our style of [illegible]. We are not disposed to make
"CAST IRON RULES"
as to trade made by any of our well-known customers, and it is our wish and our interest to be obliging to all, but we MUST be understood as positively determined
NOT TO DO A CREDIT BUSINESS!
Such of our reliable customers as find the usual Thirty days a convenience, are entirely welcome to the time, if payment is promptly made, but we make no offer of running accounts and cannot consent to do anything but a strictly
CASH BUSINESS.
This is simply just to our trade and aside from convenience to ourselves, the maintenance of the principle is of real importance to our customers, for we cannot sell goods at the very close margins we now make if our profits are to be cut down by losses sure to come with any general credit trade.

LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

CITY NOTES.

—The sheriff locked up a Division street grocery store on Friday.

—The new Presbyterian church is now the object of most interest to visitors. The towers make some very pointed observations.

—After this morning until the close of her season the Mary Powell will leave this city at 6 A. M.

—The tide was so low on Saturday evening the Sleightburgh ferry-boat was detained from landing in her slip on this side for some time.

—It is a very unsafe thing to spit from an upper window upon the sidewalk. It feels very unpleasant to a new bonnet.

—Music Hall audiences are getting troubled lately with the whistling fever; this when united with the music of a jewsharp is very delightful.

—The Wiltwyck Mission Sunday School already demonstrates that it supplies a need. It has an average attendance of more than a hundred.

—Mr. Sahler, of the Wallkill Valley Railway, has furnished a railing along the dangerous embankment, where the railroad crosses the highway.

—Wanted—a number of boys to sell Daily Freemans, every morning. Smart, active boys, with legs and voices, can make money. Apply at the counting-room.

—A young man with a white pilot house hat and side wheel whiskers, came rolling his vest pockets full of sand down Division street on Sunday, and sailed away in the James W. Baldwin.

—If Mr. Bergh will come to this burgh we think he can find enough to occupy his time. Why, the Roe family alone can make it vigorous and lively for him. .Come, gentle spirit, come!

—The grass upon the flats in the creek have, within a few days, turned from a vivid green to a golden hue, and now it is time to look for local editors to quote Bryant's "the melancholy days are come."

—John Van Deusen, a well-known uptown bachelor, left his hotel the other day in a very mysterious manner. He packed up his trunk with clothing and medicines, and it is supposed he has started for the Vienna Exposition, or Port Jervis. It may be he has gone on a medicinal tour to distribute the well-known cure-all called Ten Broeck Balm.

—A young man who jams wind in Goeller's band, while in a high state of beer on Friday, took a very frantic ride with a horse belonging to one Mr. Brown, and the said Brown has got a warrant for the arrest of the gay and gallant wind jammer, and proposes to make him show cause why he shall run off with Brown's horse, returning in a high perspiration and dead lame.

—Sam Sharpley and Sheridan and Mack's combination show gave the best humorous entertainment in Washington Hall on Saturday evening ever given in this city. It was very funny and in strictly good taste. Sharpley is a whole show himself, and he does his stage business as if he enjoyed it as much as his audience does. Come again, Samuel, and bring 'em all back with you.

Coal Arrival.

On Saturday 60 canal boats laden with 7,642 tons of coal reached tide water at Eddyville through the Delaware & Hudson canal.

Horse Stolen.

On Saturday evening while Mr. William Hutton's horse and wagon were tied in front of Mr. Kerr's place on Abeel street some person more enterprising than honest went off with the establishment, and we believe it has not yet been heard from.

Fearful Accident.

On Saturday evening a laborer named John Mack fell down into Brigham's quarry at Creek Locks, a distance of between sixty and seventy feet. We did not hear positively the result, but suppose he must have sustained mortal injuries, if he was not killed outright.

Candidates.

The following are candidates for the Democratic nomination for Supreme Court Judge:—Judge Van Alstyne and ex-County Judge Clute of Albany, A. Schoonmaker, Jr., and T. R. Westbrook of Ulster, Judge Osborn of Greene, Judges Danforth and Mitchell of Schoharie.

Heavy Stone.

A stone from Fitch's quarry, twenty feet long and eighteen feet wide, weighing ten tons, was drawn through Wall street Saturday morning on its way to the dock at Wilbur.

Sewing Machine Case.

John street uptown has been enlivened with another sewing machine case. The parties are Webster L. Barriger agst. Charles E. Chapman, and the plaintiff claimed he had sold four machines for the defendant, on which he claimed commissions to the amount of sixty-six dollars and fifty-nine cents. The justice gave judgment for plaintiff in the sum of forty-two dollars and twenty-one cents.

Sporting.

There was a nice little trot on the Kingston track Saturday afternoon, a match race for fifty dollars between the roan mare of Luther Hoffman and the gray mare of William Shader. Hoffman's mare won in two straight heats; there was no time given, as the owners do not want their horses to have a record. A number of sporting gentlemen witnessed the race, which was close and quite interesting.

Attempted Suicide.

Mrs. John Miller, who resides on Hasbrouck avenue in the lower portion of this city, had some dispute with her husband on Saturday afternoon which so worked upon her mind she attempted to commit suicide by swallowing about two ounces of aqua ammonia. The ammonia caused excessive vomiting, and thus the woman's attempt on her life was frustrated. The result of the dose is severe inflammation of the throat and stomach, which leaves Mrs. Miller in a dangerous condition.

A Happy Printer.

Last evening at the residence of the bride's mother in Matteawan, Mr. Amos A. Decker, a compositor in The Freeman establishment, was united in marriage to Miss Phœbe E. Brundage. The ceremony took place at 8 o'clock and was witnessed by a considerable party of the relatives and friends of the young bride and groom. May the newly wedded couple, in the words of Rip Van Winkle, "live long and prosper."

Stone for the East River Bridge.

Messrs. Madden & Noone are quarrying stone for the East River bridge at what is known as "Flat Rocks," off Pearl street avenue, in the upper portion of the city. The "Flat Rocks" have been for a long while a favorite resort of pic-nickers, and people who like a short and convenient walk in the woods, if this grove may be called a woods. It is said Messrs. Madden & Noone have a hundred men or more at work, and the stone is not blasted, but drilled and wedged apart. All the blocks are large and each one weighs several tons.

ALONG THE RIVER.

Albany is to be supplied with slop water from its nasty canal basin. It is said to taste like green turtle soup that has been struck by blue lightning.

The schooner yacht Lurline, owned by Mr. Philip Phoenix, which has been on a cruise to Hudson, passed the mouth of the Rondout on Saturday afternoon, bound south.

The citizens of Hudson have been victimized by a beat, calling himself E. Douglas, professing to represent a New York firm, by procuring subscriptions for a thermometer with business cards. A number paid their money, but have never received a thermometer.

Messrs. J. R. & H. S. Baldwin, proprietors of the New Baltimore ship-yards, on Tuesday launched a large barge, which is destined for the coal trade. This new vessel belongs to the Delaware & Hudson Canal Company, and was built for the especial business of carrying coal. She arrived at the docks of the Company in this city on Saturday last.

The moonlight excursion to be given to-night on board the Mary Powell by Messrs. Betts and Bishop will without doubt be a pleasant affair. All who desire a moonlight sail on the beautiful Hudson in its most picturesque portions, and on one of the handsomest of steamers, should not fail to embrace this opportunity.

Tides.

High Water at Rondout Light House to-day at 12 M. and 12 P. M.

Personal.

Mr. S. Weiner, the Garden street merchant, has been sojourning for some days at Long Branch, but on Saturday last he went to Sharon Springs for the benefit of the mineral waters.

Substantial Dock.

Neidlinger & Schmidt, the firm which owns the malt-house and large ice house at South Rondout, have contracted with Messrs. Gage & Powley, dock builders, of this city, for the construction of a new dock along their entire water front. The piles are to be of oak and the timber of chestnut, and as the firm which is to do the work always make a substantial job, Neidlinger & Schmidt will have a solid dock front.

Numerous.

The number of candidates for office that flood the upper part of the city is getting to be alarming. The other day no less than fourteen were in the court-house yard, and Saturday seven interviewed our uptown reporter. It is almost impossible now-a-days to walk the street without finding it at some point blockaded with a knot of candidates discussing their own particular qualification for the offices of sheriff and county clerk.

An Excursion.

On Friday last an excursion party from Highland visited this city and pic-nicked in Crane's grove at Ponckhockie. During the afternoon the party, headed by their band, marched to Mr. Walter B. Crane's residence and serenaded the family. The Deacon was absent from home, but Henry was equal to the occasion, for mounting the railing of the verandah he electrified that pic-nic with a speech. No cards.

The Bell of the Season.

What has been said in The Freeman about the ringing of the Second Reformed Church bell, has, it seems, been to some effect; for the Consistory of that congregation have finally resolved upon a change in the hour of ringing, and the bell will henceforth chime in with the rest. No doubt this will be good news to the church-goers of other denominations in the upper part of the city who have heretofore been so much annoyed. If we have been correctly informed, the bell will hereafter be rung at half-past ten in the morning; but meeting will not open until a quarter of eleven o'clock.

Beer Barrel Burst.

On Saturday last while John Maxwell, the brewer, was driving through Wilbur with a half barrel of ale in his wagon the barrel burst with a report like a bursting bomb-shell, and the malt liquor flew into the air like the jet of a fountain. The little incident proved how energetic the rising generation of that lively portion of our city is, for in an instant after its occurrence from thirty-two points of the compass could be seen hoodlums gathering with all manner of beer-holding vessels to catch the frothy tide.

A Trifling Request.

A young gentleman was walking along one of our city streets the other evening in the moonlight, leisurely swinging his cane, when he met two young girls, and one of them accosted him thus: "Say, Mister, this here girl says she would like to kiss you." The young man stopped and said, "Well, she may." But the damsel did not come to time, for she exclaimed, "Oh, Sallie! what a story! I never said no such thing!" Thus it ever is on this sublunary sphere; our fondest anticipations are raised to a high pitch by some frolicsome wave of hope, and we are about to realize the goal of our desires, when suddenly something comes to knock it all over, and our metaphors, as well as anticipations, get mixed.

Disgraceful Affair.

Ponckhockie was again the scene on Sunday morning of a most disgraceful affair. A fight took place in Conolan's saloon in which a gang of roughs who frequent that portion or Ponckhockie badly hurt a boarder. They afterwards came outside and broke some glass in the windows. They then went for a milkman who was peddling his milk near there. Some of the party held the horse while the others got all the milk they wanted without pay. A number of our best citizens on their way to church had to stop their horses and wait the pleasure of these young outlaws. One of the gang, after smashing some windows, struck at a young man, standing on the corner, with an old shovel, and would have split his skull had he not dodged very quickly. The ruffian followed him afterwards some distance, threatening him. They then went on the opposite corner and broke in the windows of Mr. Stebbins' small house. One of the principal actors in the affray was William Legg, who is now under bonds for assaulting Mrs. Diehl. Another principal was a young man named Fox. It is about time this Ponckhockie gang is brought to justice; they breed violence continually. Especially should young Legg be taken care of.

"On the Saugerties Road."

The above is the title of the minor pictures on the first page of the Daily Graphic newspaper, for Wednesday last. The cut represents three children coming back from school with their books in their hands. There are two girls and a boy, and the boy's hat and the girls' sunbonnets occupy most of the room in the sketch. The view is taken from the rear, and the girls appear to have black stockings on—a somewhat unusual kind of clothing for summer, we should say. This is probably the most notable view of the Saugerties road we have ever seen; for it appears to be a road the young ones are walking on, though you need the notice underneath, "On the Saugerties Road," to make you feel sure; and if anybody who is acquainted with the Saugerties road were to see the bit of road sketched in the Graphic we suspect he would be just a little bothered to tell at what point the view was taken from. The artist says the children are "coming back from school" and he represents them going. This picture is one of those things no fellow can understand, and for dreariness is almost equal to a lecture by Eli Perkins, or one of that poor chap's letters to the Graphic.

Death of Mr. George Diamond.

Mr. George Diamond, a prominent merchant and citizen of our neighboring village of Eddyville, died at his residence in that place in an unexpected manner on Sunday morning, about 7 o'clock. He had been unwell with throat complaints for some months and at one time it was supposed he could not recover, but he did rally and was apparently gaining his usual health and attending to his extensive business, when the fatal blow was struck while he was at the breakfast table on the morning above mentioned. Mr. Diamond's parents came to Eddyville during the construction of the Delaware & Hudson Canal, on which work the father of the writer of this sketch was employed, George, the eldest, being then a young child of five or six years.—In 1828 the Diamonds moved to Rondout and occupied a small house near the lower end of what are now Hon. Thomas Cornell's grounds, back of where Captain Mapes built a large stone building that was intended for an iron foundry, since torn down. In about 1833 George's father bought the land on which the hotel and stables of Mr. Thomas Hamilton stand. The land consisted of two lots, purchased from Mr. Abraham Hasbrouck for $200 each, and were the second lots sold of "the big meadow"—the corner of Division and Mill streets, occupied by the O'Reilly building, being the first one. On his purchase the elder Diamond erected what is now the Hamilton Hotel, which he kept for many years and where most of the brothers and sisters of George were born. The hotel was built in 1834 and George lived there with his parents until he was nearly a man grown, when he went on the river, it being in 1843, "the yellow fever summer," as first deck hand or mate of the Victory, which boat then towed the Company's barges and did the freight and passenger business out of Rondout Creek and made but two trips each week.

In 1849 George was married to Miss Mary Ryan, in the house now occupied by Mr. Mozier North on Wurts street, then owned and occupied by Mr. James S. McEntee, in whose family Miss Ryan lived, having moved from the old Mansion House with them; and some of our older residents will remember her, for she was a universal favorite with the guests of that old hostelry. In the same year Mr. Diamond went in business in Eddyville, where he has ever since continued to reside upon the spot where he first took his young wife, where his children, seven of whom are still living, were born, and where he accumulated a large fortune.

George Diamond was well known in this community as an upright, thoroughly honest business man, a law abiding citizen, a conscientious member of the Catholic church, a loving husband and father, and a kind-hearted, helpful friend. He was a modest, retiring man, whose principal enjoyment was found within his own home circle, but his friends were many, and outside of his own family he will be mourned by those for whom the road of life was made less rough by their meeting with George Diamond upon it.

Mr. Diamond was about fifty-four years of age, and, besides his wife and seven children, he leaves two brothers and four sisters in this city to mourn his death in the prime of his manhood.

Poughkeepsie Bridge.

On Friday last the stockholders of the Poughkeepsie Bridge Company met at their office in that city for the purpose of electing Directors. 11,680 shares were voted on, the whole number being cast for the following gentlemen, who were thereupon declared elected:

J. Edgar Thomson, Philadelphia, President Pennsylvania R. R.

Thomas A. Scott, Philadelphia, Vice President Pennsylvania R. R.

A. L. Dennis, Newark, President N. J. R. R. & T. Co.

H. G. Eastman, Poughkeepsie.

Andrew Carnegie, New York, of the Keystone Bridge Works and Union Iron-Mills of Pittsburgh.

Charles G. Francklyn, New York, Cunard Steamship Co.

David Salomon, New York, Financial Agent Penn. R. R. Co.

Andrew J. Cassatt, Philadelphia, General Manager Penn. R. R. Co.

Geo. P. Pelton, Poughkeepsie, President P. & E. R. R.

P. P. Dickinson, Poughkeepsie.

Strickland Kneass, Philadelphia, Assistant Prest. Penn. R. R. Co.

Gardiner F. McCandless, New York, Treas. I. M. & N. R. R. Co.

A meeting of the newly chosen Directors was held immediately upon the adjournment of the stockholders' meeting, at which the following officers were elected:

President—A. L. Dennis.

Vice President—H. G. Eastman.

Treasurer—G. F. McCandless,

Secretary—Chas. B. Thurston.

Assistant Secretary and Attorney—R. F. Wilkinson.

The party of railroad men in Poughkeepsie on Friday spent some time in looking over the proposed line for the bridge, and also visited the Clearwater stone quarries in Mr. Taylor's steamer Bessie. They propose to begin active operations of construction at once. Mr. Lindville, the Engineer in Chief will be in the city to-day.

Attempt at Burglary.

Mr. Rosenblatt, a gentleman from New York city, who has been spending the summer in this city, residing in a house corner of East Front and Cedar streets, had his residence broken into Friday night, but the thief was discovered and escaped without carrying off anything. Mr. K. and his wife went out that evening to take a walk up street and left in charge of the house a female servant and an old lady, the mother of Mr. R. About 9:30 the neighbors near by heard cries and screams issuing from the house, and running out to learn the cause, heard the girl call out "for God's sake come and help us, they have broken in the door." Some four men hurried to the house, and told the girl to let them in, but the women were so frightened they didn't dare venture down stairs, and while the men were parleying what to do, the burglar cut around the corner and started for the woods at Jacob's Valley. Some of the party started after him, but he proved too fleet of foot for them, and escaped. It was found the lock of the outer door had been picked, but the burglar had been unable to open the inside door.

Young Men's Christian Association.

The Eighth Annual Convention of the Young Men's Christian Associations of this state, will be held at Amsterdam, opening on Wednesday, September 24th, at 3½ o'clock P. M., and closing on the following Friday night.

Several papers will be read and discussed on important features of the work of the Associations, and it is anticipated that the sessions will be full of interest.

Pastors of churches, and young men from places where there are no Associations, are invited to attend. They will meet with the same hospitable welcome from the citizens of Amsterdam as the regular delegates, and will participate freely in the discussions of the Convention.

Several visitors are expected to be present who are prominent in Association work in other states.

Southern Pine Lumber.

The schooner Lizzie Evans is now discharging a cargo of yellow pine and cypress lumber on W. B. Crane's dock, Ponckhockie, from the mill of D. R. Smith & Co., Britton's Ferry, South Carolina.

—The Wirtembergh has a library, as every church should have, and has added 400 volumes to it, as it ought. The church has our distinguished approval.

Quixstar.

QUIXSTAR, a novel, by the author of "Blindpits." New York, G. P. Putnam's Sons, 4th Avenue and 23d street, 1873.

The scene of this story is laid in Scotland in a quiet village called Quixstar, which, in popular pronunciation, "has been reduced to Quicksir and even Quicker." The author says of the characters of the story: "It would appear that the people of this history belong to the middle class, possibly even to what is called the lower middle class, that unfortunate section of society around which it is difficult to throw an interest." But the author succeeds, be it difficult or not, in throwing an interest about the people whom she has pictured, and the reader's attention is held throughout by the anticipation the story itself begets by the quaint humor that flashes here and there, and by the rare beauty and terseness of the author's style. The novel deals with two and even three generations, with the fathers and mothers, their children and grandchildren. Peter Veitch is a gardener whose son, Peter Veitch, goes to sea and becomes captain of a vessel. Mr. Sinclair is a retired tobacconist and a bachelor. Mrs. Sinclair is his brother's widow and the mother of Bell, Effie and Tom. She is devoted to her children, and when her son is setting off to become a banker she can say to him:

"You have excellent introductions, and people should try to be acquainted with those above than rather than below—those who are better than themselves, and they are sure to improve both in mind and manners."

"But if a lot of fellows insist on improving themselves by sticking to me, what am I to do—that is, fellows below me?"

"You need not encourage them. There's no difficulty in that, Tom."

"Shake them off? And if the people better than me shake me off?"

"They won't do that, that's entirely different."

"I don't see it. I've read in books that we should always choose the best society. Pity the best society; it would need to strengthen its rails."

Maddy, or Magdalen Fairgreve, is very Scotch, and is Mrs. Sinclair's "faithful servant." Mr. Gilbert keeps the village school, and, though a worthy man, is easily elated or depressed, is continually thinking of himself and taking slights when they are not intended. Mr. Doubleday is the tutor of the young Sinclairs and is described as being "not tall, and he was thin; a downy film was on his chin and upper lip, although he looked old enough to have grown a heavier crop; the corners of his mouth were turned up a little on his cheeks, which gave it a crescent shape, the effect of which was peculiar, and he had no forehead to speak of, or if he had, it was hidden by the hair growing far down on it, and then standing sheer up like the scrubby verdure on the side of a steep hill. Nor was this exterior lighted up as it ought to have been by the soul within; on the contrary, his face might have been that of a sheep, for all you could read in it. Perhaps the soul found it difficult to get up an effective illumination through the small, dim, short-sighted eyes that served it for windows." This would probably be taken by most readers for a description of the scoundrel of the plot, yet Mr. Doubleday is far from being anything of the kind. He is quiet in his demeanor, and in the true sense of the word appears to be a gentleman, though he does not dress elegantly enough to suit Mrs. Sinclair and is somewhat absent-minded at times. There are other characters "too numerous to mention" and incidents of love and death, voyage and shipwreck. The story is healthy in tone, and much superior to the average foreign novels. For sale by F. S. Wynkoop.

Pianos.

I am prepared to furnish Pianos and Organs of any manufacturer at a reduced price; also second-hand Pianos for sale or rent.

E. WINTER, Book and Music Store,
Music Hall, Kingston.

ADVICE FOR EVERYBODY THAT COSTS NOBODY ANYTHING.—Lotions and cosmetics make a superficial coating on the skin, give an artificial color easily seen, but are vilely destructive of the color, texture and pliability of the skin itself. Wrinkled, haggard and prematurely old looking, exactly describe the appearance of those who habitually "paint their faces." If you would have the clear transparent, healthy and soft tinted complexion which nature gives, free from pimples, tan, freckles, or all other disfigurements, use Hand Sapolio —the most effective and fragrant toilet soap ever manufactured. Sold by all dealers at 10 and 15 cents a cake.

Cure for Piles.

Vincent's Magic pile remedy is the most perfect cure for Purites or itching Piles ever offered to the public. It is warranted to give relief to the worst cases in forty-eight hours after the commencement of its use, if the directions for using are complied with. Price 50 cents per box. G. E. Vincent, Proprietor, Catskill, N. Y. At Wholesale and Retail by Van Deusen Brothers.

Soreness of the breast or lungs, or liver difficulties, are relieved by placing two or three thicknesses of flannel wet with Renne's Pain-Killing Magic Oil over the soreness when retiring to bed at night. Try it. One application will help you very much. Sold by R. Deyo and all druggists in Rondout and Kingston.

Peaches.

The peaches that our citizens buy from those traveling peach orchards in our streets for their families must be rather a poor luxury.—Roasting and drying in the sun all day is enough to kill the best fruit that grows.

Smokers.

You that consider yourself judges of the FRAGRANT HAVANA WEED, step into C. L. Edmonds' emporium and ask for the LA TUBEROSA. They don't cost but FIVE CENTS and are pronounced first chop by connoisseurs. Try them and be convinced.

Attention!

All comrades of G. W. Pratt Post, No. 30, G. A. R. are ordered to be present on next Wednesday evening, Sept. 10th. All honorably discharged soldiers or sailors wishing to be mustered in will then present themselves. Assembly beats at 8 o'clock sharp.

By order,
W. OSTRANDER, Commander.
G. SCHERMERHORN, Adjutant.

The Genuine Ham's "Oil of Gladness"

Is neatly put up in yellow wrappers with the name blown in the glass. All others are counterfeit. Sold by R. Deyo at wholesale and retail, and all dealers in the country.

Fruit.

The HUGUENOT SALOON has started the ball rolling for the season's trade in the very finest Peaches, Dutchess Pears, Grapes and Plums. Orders left at the Huguenot will be faithfully attended to. Good, well-selected ripe fruit is always better and cheaper than common, dried up stuff, at any price. Peaches wholesale and retail.

AUTUMN IS AT THE DOOR!
THE FALL SEWING MUST BE COMMENCED?
Are You Properly Prepared?
We cannot offer you much in way of STITCHES, but are on hand to help you efficiently as possible by furnishing the
GOODS NOW WANTED
for outfits for your girls, clothing for your boys and all the various articles demanded for family comfort, housekeeping conveniences and the pleasant equipment of home. Our plans for the fall are:
To Keep a Better Stock
Than usual, to push our trade in handsome and substantial goods as rapidly as demand will justify, and to stand fast by the honored principle that has made our store popular and our business successful, viz.:
ONE PRICE TO ALL
And the fair truth as to quality of what we sell.
At the opening of the fall season we take occasion to correct some evident misapprehension as to our style of TRUSTING. We are not disposed to make
"CAST IRON RULES"
as to trade made by any of our well-known customers, and it is our wish and our interest to be obliging to all, but we MUST be understood as positively determined
NOT TO DO A CREDIT BUSINESS!
Such of our reliable customers as find the usual Thirty days a convenience, are entirely welcome to the time, if payment is promptly made, but we make no offer of running accounts and cannot consent to do anything but a strictly
CASH BUSINESS.
This is simply just to our trade and aside from convenience to ourselves, the maintenance of the principle is of real importance to our customers, for we cannot sell goods at the very close margins we now make if our profits are to be cut down by losses sure to come with any general credit trade.

THE GREAT SOUTH AMERICAN

BLOOD PURIFIER

JURUBEBA

Is the most powerful cleanser, strengthener and remover of Glandular Obstructions known to Materia Medica.

It is specially adapted to constitutions "worn down" and debilitated by the warm weather of Spring and Summer, when the blood is not in active circulation, consequently gathering impurities from sluggishness and imperfect action of the secretive organs, and is manifested by Tumors, Eruptions, Blotches, Boils, Pustules, Scrofula, &c., &c.

When weary and languid from overwork, and dullness, drowsiness and inertia take the place of energy and vigor, the system needs a Tonic to build it up and help the Vital Forces to regain their recuperative power.

In the heat of Summer, frequently the Liver and Spleen do not properly perform their functions; the Uterine and Urinary Organs are inactive, producing weakness of the stomach and intestines and a predisposition to bilious derangement.

DR. WELLS'

EXTRACT OF JURUBEBA

is prepared directly from the SOUTH AMERICAN PLANT, and is peculiarly suited to all these difficulties; it will cleanse the VITIATED BLOOD, strengthen the LIFE-GIVING POWERS, and REMOVE ALL OBSTRUCTIONS from IMPAIRED AND ENFEEBLED Organs.

It should be freely taken, as Jurubeba is pronounced by medical writers the most efficient PURIFIER, TONIC and DEOBSTRUENT known in the whole range of medicinal plants.

Resolved (if the assembly concur), That sections three and six of article seven be amended as follows:

Section three to be amended by adding at the end of the section the following:

No extra compensation shall be made to any contractor; but if from any unforeseen cause, the terms of any contract shall prove to be unjust and oppressive, the canal board may, upon the application of the contractor, cancel such contract.

§ 6. The legislature shall not sell, lease or otherwise dispose of the Erie canal, the Oswego canal, the Champlain canal, the Black River canal, or the Cayuga and Seneca canal; but they shall remain the property of the state and under its management forever. Hereafter the expenditure for collections, superintendence, ordinary and extraordinary repairs on the canals named in this section shall not exceed, in any year, their gross receipts for the previous year. All funds that may be derived from any lease, sale or other disposition of any canal shall be applied in payment of the debt for which the canal revenues are pledged.

That the following be added as sections thirteen and fourteen, in place of sections thirteen and fourteen of this article, which have been transferred and inserted as sections twenty-one and twenty-two of article three.

§ 13. The sinking funds provided for the payment of interest and extinguishment of the principal of the debts of the state, shall be separately kept and safely invested, and neither of them shall be appropriated or used in any manner other than for the specific purpose for which it shall have been provided.

§ 14. Neither the legislature, canal board, canal appraisers, nor any person or persons acting in behalf of the state, shall audit, allow or pay any claim which, as between citizens of the state, would be barred by lapse of time. The limitation of existing claims shall begin to run from the adoption of this section; but this provision shall not be construed to revive claims already barred by existing statutes, nor to repeal any statute fixing the time within which claims shall be presented or allowed, nor shall it extend to any claims duly presented within the time allowed by law, and prosecuted with due diligence from the time of such presentment. But if the claimant shall be under legal disability, the claim may be presented within two years after such disability is removed.

CONCURRENT RESOLUTIONS proposing amendments to article three of the constitution.

Resolved (if the assembly concur), That sections one, four, five, six, seven and eight of article three of the constitution be amended so as to read as follows:

ARTICLE III.

SECTION 1. The legislative power of the state shall be vested in a senate and assembly.

§ 4. An enumeration of the inhabitants of the state shall be made under the direction of the legislature, in the year one thousand eight hundred and seventy-five, and in every tenth year thereafter.

§ 5. The assembly shall consist of one hundred and twenty-eight members elected for one year. The members of assembly shall be apportioned among the several counties of the state, by the legislature, as nearly as may be, according to the number of their respective inhabitants, excluding aliens, and shall be chosen by single districts. The assembly districts shall remain as at present organized until after the enumeration of the inhabitants of the state in the year eighteen hundred and seventy-five. The legislature, at its first session after the return of every enumeration, shall apportion the members of assembly among the several counties of the state, in manner aforesaid, and the board of supervisors in such counties as may be entitled under such apportionment to more than one member, except the city and county of New York, and in said city and county the board of aldermen of said city shall assemble at such times as the legislature making such apportionment shall prescribe and divide their respective counties into assembly districts, each of which districts shall consist of convenient and contiguous territory equal to the number of members of assembly to which such counties shall be entitled, and shall cause to be filed in the offices of the secretary of state and the clerks of their respective counties a description of such districts, specifying the number of each district, and the population thereof, according to the last preceding enumeration, as near as can be ascertained, and the apportionment and districts shall remain unaltered until another enumeration shall be made as herein provided. No town shall be divided in the formation of assembly districts. Every county heretofore established and separately organized, except the county of Hamilton, shall always be entitled to one member of the assembly, and no new county shall be hereafter erected unless its population shall entitle it to a member. The county of Hamilton shall elect with the county of Fulton until the population of the county of Hamilton shall, according to the ratio, be entitled to a member. But the legislature may abolish the said county of Hamilton and annex the territory thereof to some other county or counties. Nothing in this section shall prevent division at any time of counties and towns, and the erection of new towns and counties by the legislature.

§ 6. Each member of the legislature shall receive for his service an annual salary of one thousand five hundred dollars. The members of either house shall also receive the sum of one dollar for every ten miles they shall travel in going to and returning from their place of meeting, once in each session, on the most usual route. Senators, when the senate alone is convened in extraordinary session, or when serving as members of the court for the trial of impeachments, and such members of the assembly, not exceeding nine in number, as shall be appointed managers of an impeachment, shall receive an additional allowance of ten dollars a day.

§ 7. No member of the legislature shall receive any civil appointment within this state, or the senate of the United States, from the governor, the governor and senate, or from the legislature, or from any city government, during the time for which he shall have been elected; and all such appointments, and all votes given for any such member for any such office or appointment, shall be void.

§ 8. No person shall be eligible to the legislature who at the time of his election is, or within one hundred days previous thereto has been, a member of congress, a civil or military officer under the United States, or an officer under any city government. And if any person shall, after his election as a member of the legislature, be elected to congress or appointed to any office, civil or military under the government of the United States, or under any city government, his acceptance thereof shall vacate his seat.

And that the following additional sections be added to said article three of the constitution:

§ 17. No act shall be passed which shall provide that any existing law, or any part thereof, shall be made or deemed a part of said act, or which shall enact that any existing law, or any part thereof, shall be applicable, except by inserting it in such act.

§ 18. The legislature shall not pass a private or local bill in any of the following cases:

Changing the names of persons.

Laying out, opening, altering, working or discontinuing roads, highways or alleys, or for draining swamps or other low lands.

Locating or changing county seats.

Providing for changing of venue in civil or criminal cases.

Incorporating villages.

Providing for election of members of boards of supervisors.

Selecting, drawing, summoning or impanneling grand or petit jurors.

Regulating the interest on money.

The opening and conducting of elections or designating places of voting.

Creating, increasing or decreasing fees, percentage or allowance of public officers during the term for which said officers are elected or appointed.

Granting to any corporation, association or individual the right to lay down railroad tracks.

Granting to any private corporation, association or individual any exclusive privilege, immunity or franchise whatever.

Providing for building bridges, and chartering companies for such purposes, except on the Hudson river below Waterford, and on the East river, or over the waters forming a part of the boundaries of the state.

The legislature shall pass general laws providing for the cases enumerated in this section, and for all other cases which in its judgment may be provided for by general laws. But no law shall authorize the construction or operation of a street railroad except upon the condition that the consent of the owners of one-half in value of the property bounded on, and the consent also of the local authorities having the control of that portion of a street or highway upon which it is proposed to construct or operate such railroad be first obtained, or, in case the consent of such property-owners cannot be obtained, the general term of the supreme court in the district in which it is proposed to be constructed may, upon application, appoint three commissioners, who shall determine, after a hearing of all parties interested, whether such railroad ought to be constructed or operated, and their determination, confirmed by the court, may be taken in lieu of the consent of the property owners.

§ 19. The legislature shall neither audit nor allow any private claim or account against the state, but may appropriate money to pay such claims as shall have been audited and allowed according to law.

§ 20. Every law which imposes, continues or revives a tax shall distinctly state the tax and the object to which it is to be applied, and it shall not be sufficient to refer to any other law to fix such tax or object.

§ 21. On the final passage, in either house of the legislature, of any act which imposes, continues or revives a tax, or creates a debt or charge, or makes, continues or revives any appropriation of public or trust money or property, or releases, discharges or commutes any claim or demand of the state, the question shall be taken for yeas and nays, which shall be duly entered upon the journals, and three-fifths of all the members elected to either house shall in all such cases be necessary to constitute a quorum therein.

§ 22. There shall be in the several counties, except in cities whose boundaries are the same as those of the county, a board of supervisors, to be composed of such members and elected in such a manner, and for such period, as is or may be provided by law. In any such cities the duties and powers of a board of supervisors may be devolved upon the common council or board of aldermen thereof.

Section seventeen of said article is hereby made section twenty-three of the proposed amendment, and is amended so as to read as follows:

§ 23. The legislature shall, by general laws, confer upon the boards of supervisors of the several counties of the state such further powers of local legislation and administration as the legislature may from time to time deem expedient.

§ 24. The legislature shall not, nor shall the common council of any city, nor any board of supervisors, grant any extra compensation to any public officer, servant, agent or contractor.

§ 25. Sections seventeen and eighteen of this article shall not apply to any bill or the amendments to any bill which shall be reported to the legislature by commissioners who have been appointed pursuant to law to revise the statutes.

Resolved, (if the assembly concur), That the foregoing amendment be referred to the legislature to be chosen at the next general election of senators, and that, in conformity to section one of article thirteen of the constitution, it be published for three months previous to the time of such election.

STATE OF NEW YORK, In Senate, May 29, 1873.—The foregoing resolutions were duly passed.

§1. The comptroller and secretary of state shall be chosen at the same general election, and for the same term as the governor. The persons holding the offices at the time when this section shall take effect shall continue to hold the same until the first day of January next succeeding the first election of comptroller and secretary of state, pursuant to the provisions hereof, and shall each receive a salary to be fixed by law for such time as they may hold such offices beyond the term for which they shall have been elected

§ 2. § 3. A superintendent of state prisons shall be appointed by the governor, with the consent of the senate, and hold his office for five years, unless sooner removed; he shall give security in such amount, and with such sureties, as shall be required by law for the faithful discharge of his duties; he shall have the superintendence, management and control of the state prisons, subject to such laws as now exist or may hereafter be enacted; he shall appoint the agents, wardens, physicians and chaplains of the prisons. The agent and warden of each prison shall appoint all other officers of such prison, except the clerk, subject to the approval of the same by the superintendent. The comptroller shall appoint the clerks of the prisons. The superintendent shall have all the powers and perform all the duties not inconsistent herewith, which have heretofore been had and performed by the inspectors of state prisons; and from and after the time when such superintendent of state prisons shall have been appointed and qualified, the office of inspector of state prisons shall be and is hereby abolished. The governor may remove the superintendent for cause at any time, giving to him a copy of the charges against him, and an opportunity to be heard in his defense

§ 4. The treasurer shall be chosen by the senate and assembly in joint ballot, and hold his office for three years, and until his successor shall be chosen and qualified. He shall, before entering upon the duties of his office, give such security as may be required by law. He may be suspended from office by the governor during the recess of the legislature, and until thirty days after the commencement of the next session of the legislature, whenever it shall appear to him that such treasurer has, in any particular, violated his duty. The governor shall appoint a competent person to discharge the duties of the office during such suspension of the treasurer.

§ 5. The lieutenant governor, comptroller, secretary of state, attorney-general, treasurer and state engineer and surveyor shall be the commissioners of the land office. The office of the commissioner of the canal fund is abolished, and all the powers and duties heretofore had and performed by the commissioners of the canal fund shall hereafter be had or performed by the comptroller. The canal board shall consist of the lieutenant governor, secretary of state, treasurer, attorney-general, state engineer and surveyor, and superintendent of public works.

§ 6. A superintendent of public works shall be appointed by the governor, with the consent of the senate, and to hold his office until the end of the term of the governor by whom he was nominated and until his successor is appointed. He shall receive for his services a compensation to be fixed by law. He shall be required by law to give security for the faithful execution of his office, before entering upon the duties thereof. He shall be charged with the execution of all laws relating to the repair and navigation of the canals; and also of those relating to the construction and improvement of the canals, except so far as the execution of the laws relating to such construction or improvement shall be confided to the state engineer and surveyor. Subject to the control of the legislature, he shall make the rules and regulations for the navigation or use of the canals. He may be suspended or removed from office by the governor, whenever in his judgment the public interest shall so require; but in case of removal of such superintendent of public works from office, the governor shall file with the secretary of state a statement of the cause of such removal, and shall report such removal and the cause thereof, to the legislature at its next session.

§ 7. The superintendent of public works shall appoint not more than three assistant superintendents, whose duties shall be prescribed by him, subject to modification by the legislature, and who shall receive for their services a compensation to be fixed by law. They shall hold their office for three years, subject to suspension or removal by the superintendent of public works, whenever in his judgment the public interest shall so require. Any vacancy in the office of any such assistant superintendent shall be filled, for the remainder of the term for which he was appointed, by the superintendent of public works; but in case of the suspension or removal of any such assistant superintendent by him he shall at once report to the governor, in writing, the cause of such removal. All other persons employed in the care and management of the canals, except collectors of tolls, and those in the department of the state engineer and surveyor, shall be appointed by the superintendent of public works, and be subject to suspension or removal by him.

§ 8. The office of canal commissioner is abolished from and after the appointment and qualification of the superintendent of public works, until which time the canal commissioners shall continue to discharge their duties as now provided by law. The superintendent of public works shall perform all the duties of the canal commissioners, and board of canal commissioners, as now declared by law, until otherwise provided by the legislature.

§ 9. The governor, by and with the consent of the senate, shall have power to fill vacancies, in the offices in this article named except as herein otherwise provided; or, if the senate be not in session, he may grant commissions, which shall expire at the end of the next succeeding session of the senate.

§ 10. The attorney-general, state engineer and surveyor and treasurer, in office at the time this article shall take effect, shall hold their offices until their successors are appointed.

§ 11. The powers and duties of the respective boards, and of the several officers in this article named, shall, except as herein otherwise provided, be such as now are or hereafter may be prescribed by law.

§ 12. All offices for the weighing, gauging, measuring, culling or inspecting any merchandise, produce, manufacture or commodity whatever, are hereby abolished, and no such office shall hereafter be created by law; but nothing in this section contained shall abrogate any office created for the purpose of protecting the public health or the interest of the state in its property, revenue, tolls or purchases, or of supplying the people with correct standards of weights and measures, or shall prevent the creation of any office for such purposes hereafter.

Resolved, (if the assembly concur), That the foregoing amendment be referred to the legislature to be chosen at the next general election of senators, and that in conformity to section one of article thirteen of the constitution, it be published for three months previous to the time of such election.

CONCURRENT RESOLUTIONS proposing amendments to article four of the constitution.

Resolved, (if the assembly concur), That sections one, two, four, eight and nine of article four of the constitution be amended so as to read as follows:

SECTION 1. The executive power shall be vested in a governor who shall hold his office for three years; a lieutenant-governor shall be chosen at the same time, and for the same term. The governor and lieutenant-governor elected next preceding the time when this section shall take effect, shall hold office during the term for which they were elected.

§ 2. No person shall be eligible to the office of governor or lieutenant-governor, except a citizen of the United States, of the age not less than thirty years, and who shall have been five years, next preceding his election, a resident of this state.

§ 4. The governor shall be commander-in-chief of the military and naval forces of the state. He shall have power to convene the legislature (or the senate only) on extraordinary occasions. At extraordinary sessions no subject shall be acted upon, except such as the governor may recommend for consideration. He shall communicate by message to the legislature at every session the condition of the state, and recommend such matters to them as he shall judge expedient. He shall transact all necessary business with the officers of government, civil and military. He shall expedite all such measures as may be resolved upon by the legislature, and shall take care that the laws are faithfully executed. He shall receive for his services an annual salary of ten thousand dollars, and there shall be provided for his use a suitable and furnished executive residence.

§ 8. The lieutenant-governor shall receive for his services an annual salary of five thousand dollars, and shall not receive or be entitled to any other compensation, fee or perquisite, for any duty and service he may be required to perform by the constitution or by law.

§ 9. Every bill which shall have passed the senate and assembly, shall, before it becomes a law, be presented to the governor; if he approve, he shall sign it; but if not, he shall return it with his objections to the house in which it shall have originated, which shall enter the objections at large on the journal, and proceed to reconsider it. If, after such reconsideration, two-thirds of the members elected to that house shall agree to pass the bill, it shall be sent together with the objections to the other house, by which it shall likewise be reconsidered; and if approved by two-thirds of the members elected to that house, it shall become a law notwithstanding the objections of the governor. In all such cases, the votes in both houses shall be determined by yeas and nays, and the names of the members voting shall be entered on the journal of each house respectively. If any bill shall not be returned by the governor within ten days (Sundays excepted) after it shall have been presented to him, the same shall be a law in like manner as if he had signed it, unless the legislature shall, by their adjournment, prevent its return; in which case it shall not become a law without the approval of the governor. No bill shall become a law after the final adjournment of the legislature unless approved by the governor within thirty days after such adjournment. If any bill presented to the governor contain several items of appropriations of money, he may object to one or more of such items, while approving of the other portion of the bill. In such case, he shall append to the bill, at the time of signing it, a statement of the items to which he objects; and the appropriation so objected to shall not take effect. If the legislature be in session, he shall transmit to the house in which the bill originated a copy of such statement, and the items objected to shall be separately reconsidered. If, on reconsideration, one or more of such items be approved by two-thirds of the members elected to each house, the same shall be part of the law, notwithstanding the objections of the governor. All the provisions of this section, in relation to bills not approved by the governor, shall apply in cases in which he shall withhold his approval from any item or items contained in a bill appropriating money.

Resolved, (if the assembly concur), That the foregoing amendment be referred to the legislature to be chosen at the next general election of senators, and that, in conformity to section one of article thirteen of the constitution, it be published for three months previous to the time of such election.

AYER'S HAIR VIGOR,

FOR RESTORING GRAY HAIR

To its Natural Vitality and Color.

Advancing years, sickness, care, disappointment, and hereditary predisposition, all turn the hair gray, and either of them incline it to shed prematurely.

AYER'S HAIR VIGOR by long and extensive use, has proven that it stops the falling of the hair immediately often renews the growth, and always surely restores its color, when faded or gray It stimulates the nutritive organs to healthy activity, and preserves both the hair and its beauty.—Thus brashy weak or sickly hair becomes glossy, pliable and strengthened; lost hair regrows with lively expression; falling hair is checked and stablished; thin hair thickens; and faded or gray hair resume their original color. Its operation is sure and harmless. It cures dandruff, heals all humors, and keeps the scalp cool, clean and soft—under which conditions, diseases of the scalp are impossible.

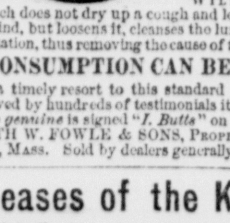

As a dressing for ladies' hair, the VIGOR is praised for its grateful and agreeable perfume, and valued for the soft lustre and richness of tone it imparts.

THE GREAT SOUTH AMERICAN

BLOOD PURIFIER

JURUBEBA

Is the most powerful cleanser, strengthener and remover of Glandular Obstructions known to Materia Medica.

It is specially adapted to constitutions "worn down" and debilitated by the warm weather of Spring and Summer, when the blood is not in active circulation, consequently gathering impurities from sluggishness and imperfect action of the secretive organs, and is manifested by Tumors, Eruptions, Blotches, Boils, Pustules, Scrofula, &c., &c.

When weary and languid from overwork, and dullness, drowsiness and inertia take the place of energy and vigor, the system needs a Tonic to build it up and help the Vital Forces to regain their recuperative power.

In the heat of Summer, frequently the Liver and Spleen do not properly perform their functions; the Uterine and Urinary Organs are inactive, producing weakness of the stomach and intestines and a predisposition to bilious derangement.

DR. WELLS'

is prepared directly from the SOUTH AMERICAN PLANT, and is peculiarly suited to all these difficulties; it will cleanse the VITIATED BLOOD, strengthen the LIFE-GIVING POWERS, and REMOVE ALL OBSTRUCTIONS from IMPAIRED AND ENFEEBLED Organs.

It should be freely taken, as Jurubeba is pronounced by medical writers the most efficient PURIFIER, TONIC and DEOBSTRUENT known in the whole range of medicinal plants.

Resolved (if the assembly concur), That sections three and six of article seven be amended as follows:

Section three to be amended by adding at the end of the section the following:

No extra compensation shall be made to any contractor; but if from any unforeseen cause, the terms of any contract shall prove to be unjust and oppressive, the canal board may, upon the application of the contractor, cancel such contract.

§ 6. The legislature shall not sell, lease or otherwise dispose of the Erie canal, the Oswego canal, the Champlain canal, the Black River canal, or the Cayuga and Seneca canal; but they shall remain the property of the state and under its management forever. Hereafter the expenditure for collections, superintendence, ordinary and extraordinary repairs on the canals named in this section shall not exceed, in any year, their gross receipts for the previous year. All funds that may be derived from any lease, sale or other disposition of any canal shall be applied in payment of the debt for which the canal revenues are pledged.

That the following be added as sections thirteen and fourteen, in place of sections thirteen and fourteen of this article, which have been transferred and inserted as sections twenty-one and twenty-two of article three.

§ 13. The sinking funds provided for the payment of interest and extinguishment of the principal of the debts of the state, shall be separately kept and safely invested, and neither of them shall be appropriated or used in any manner other than for the specific purpose for which it shall have been provided.

§ 14. Neither the legislature, canal board, canal appraisers, nor any person or persons acting in behalf of the state, shall audit, allow or pay any claim which, as between citizens of the state, would be barred by lapse of time. The limitation of existing claims shall begin to run from the adoption of this section; but this provision shall not be construed to revive claims already barred by existing statutes, nor to repeal any statute fixing the time within which claims shall be presented or allowed, nor shall it extend to any claims duly presented within the time allowed by law, and prosecuted with due diligence from the time of such presentment. But if the claimant shall be under legal disability, the claim may be presented within two years after such disability is removed.

CONCURRENT RESOLUTIONS proposing amendments to article three of the constitution.

Resolved (if the assembly concur), That sections one, four, five, six, seven and eight of article three of the constitution be amended so as to read as follows:

ARTICLE III.

SECTION 1. The legislative power of the state shall be vested in a senate and assembly.

§ 4. An enumeration of the inhabitants of the state shall be made under the direction of the legislature, in the year one thousand eight hundred and seventy-five, and in every tenth year thereafter.

§ 5. The assembly shall consist of one hundred and twenty-eight members elected for one year. The members of assembly shall be apportioned among the several counties of the state, by the legislature, as nearly as may be, according to the number of their respective inhabitants, excluding aliens, and shall be chosen by single districts. The assembly districts shall remain as at present organized until after the enumeration of the inhabitants of the state in the year eighteen hundred and seventy-five. The legislature, at its first session after the return of every enumeration, shall apportion the members of assembly among the several counties of the state, in manner aforesaid, and the board of supervisors in such counties as may be entitled under such apportionment to more than one member, except the city and county of New York, and in said city and county the board of aldermen of said city shall assemble at such times as the legislature making such apportionment shall prescribe and divide their respective counties into assembly districts, each of which districts shall consist of convenient and contiguous territory equal to the number of members of assembly to which such counties shall be entitled, and shall cause to be filed in the offices of the secretary of state and the clerks of their respective counties a description of such districts, specifying the number of each district, and the population thereof, according to the last preceding enumeration, as near as can be ascertained, and the apportionment and districts shall remain unaltered until another enumeration shall be made as herein provided. No town shall be divided in the formation of assembly districts. Every county heretofore established and separately organized, except the county of Hamilton, shall always be entitled to one member of the assembly, and no new county shall be hereafter erected unless its population shall entitle it to a member. The county of Hamilton shall elect with the county of Fulton until the population of the county of Hamilton shall, according to the ratio, be entitled to a member. But the legislature may abolish the said county of Hamilton and annex the territory thereof to some other county or counties. Nothing in this section shall prevent division at any time of counties and towns, and the erection of new towns and counties by the legislature.

§ 6. Each member of the legislature shall receive for his service an annual salary of one thousand five hundred dollars. The members of either house shall also receive the sum of one dollar for every ten miles they shall travel in going to and returning from their place of meeting, once in each session, on the most usual route. Senators, when the senate alone is convened in extraordinary session, or when serving as members of the court for the trial of impeachments, and such members of the assembly, not exceeding nine in number, as shall be appointed managers of an impeachment, shall receive an additional allowance of ten dollars a day.

§ 7. No member of the legislature shall receive any civil appointment within this state, or the senate of the United States, from the governor, the governor and senate, or from the legislature, or from any city government, during the time for which he shall have been elected; and all such appointments, and all votes given for any such member for any such office or appointment, shall be void.

§ 8. No person shall be eligible to the legislature who at the time of his election is, or within one hundred days previous thereto has been, a member of congress, a civil or military officer under the United States, or an officer under any city government. And if any person shall, after his election as a member of the legislature, be elected to congress or appointed to any office, civil or military under the government of the United States, or under any city government, his acceptance thereof shall vacate his seat.

And that the following additional sections be added to said article three of the constitution:

§ 17. No act shall be passed which shall provide that any existing law, or any part thereof, shall be made or deemed a part of said act, or which shall enact that any existing law, or any part thereof, shall be applicable, except by inserting it in such act.

§ 18. The legislature shall not pass a private or local bill in any of the following cases:

Changing the names of persons.

Laying out, opening, altering, working or discontinuing roads, highways or alleys, or for draining swamps or other low lands.

Locating or changing county seats.

Providing for changing of venue in civil or criminal cases.

Incorporating villages.

Providing for election of members of boards of supervisors.

Selecting, drawing, summoning or impanneling grand or petit jurors.

Regulating the interest on money.

The opening and conducting of elections or designating places of voting.

Creating, increasing or decreasing fees, percentage or allowance of public officers during the term for which said officers are elected or appointed.

Granting to any corporation, association or individual the right to lay down railroad tracks.

Granting to any private corporation, association or individual any exclusive privilege, immunity or franchise whatever.

Providing for building bridges, and chartering companies for such purposes, except on the Hudson river below Waterford, and on the East river, or over the waters forming a part of the boundaries of the state.

The legislature shall pass general laws providing for the cases enumerated in this section, and for all other cases which in its judgment may be provided for by general laws. But no law shall authorize the construction or operation of a street railroad except upon the condition that the consent of the owners of one-half in value of the property bounded on, and the consent also of the local authorities having the control of that portion of a street or highway upon which it is proposed to construct or operate such railroad be first obtained, or, in case the consent of such property-owners cannot be obtained, the general term of the supreme court in the district in which it is proposed to be constructed may, upon application, appoint three commissioners, who shall determine, after a hearing of all parties interested, whether such railroad ought to be constructed or operated, and their determination, confirmed by the court, may be taken in lieu of the consent of the property owners.

§ 19. The legislature shall neither audit nor allow any private claim or account against the state, but may appropriate money to pay such claims as shall have been audited and allowed according to law.

§ 20. Every law which imposes, continues or revives a tax shall distinctly state the tax and the object to which it is to be applied, and it shall not be sufficient to refer to any other law to fix such tax or object.

§ 21. On the final passage, in either house of the legislature, of any act which imposes, continues or revives a tax, or creates a debt or charge, or makes, continues or revives any appropriation of public or trust money or property, or releases, discharges or commutes any claim or demand of the state, the question shall be taken for yeas and nays, which shall be duly entered upon the journals, and three-fifths of all the members elected to either house shall in all such cases be necessary to constitute a quorum therein.

§ 22. There shall be in the several counties, except in cities whose boundaries are the same as those of the county, a board of supervisors, to be composed of such members and elected in such a manner, and for such period, as is or may be provided by law. In any such cities the duties and powers of a board of supervisors may be devolved upon the common council or board of aldermen thereof.

Section seventeen of said article is hereby made section twenty-three of the proposed amendment, and is amended so as to read as follows:

§ 23. The legislature shall, by general laws, confer upon the boards of supervisors of the several counties of the state such further powers of local legislation and administration as the legislature may from time to time deem expedient.

§ 24. The legislature shall not, nor shall the common council of any city, nor any board of supervisors, grant any extra compensation to any public officer, servant, agent or contractor.

§ 25. Sections seventeen and eighteen of this article shall not apply to any bill or the amendments to any bill which shall be reported to the legislature by commissioners who have been appointed pursuant to law to revise the statutes.

Resolved, (if the assembly concur), That the foregoing amendment be referred to the legislature to be chosen at the next general election of senators, and that, in conformity to section one of article thirteen of the constitution, it be published for three months previous to the time of such election.

CONCURRENT RESOLUTIONS proposing amendments to article five of the constitution.

Resolved, (If the assembly concur.) That article five of the constitution be amended so as to read as follows;

§1. The comptroller and secretary of state shall be chosen at the same general election, and for the same term as the governor. The persons holding the offices at the time when this section shall take effect shall continue to hold the same until the first day of January next succeeding the first election of comptroller and secretary of state, pursuant to the provisions hereof, and shall each receive a salary to be fixed by law for such time as they may hold such offices beyond the term for which they shall have been elected

§ 2. The attorney-general and state engineer and surveyor shall be appointed by the governor, with the consent of the senate, and hold their offices until the end of the term of the governor by whom they shall be nominated, and until their successors are appointed. No person shall be appointed state engineer and surveyor who is not a practical engineer.

§ 3. A superintendent of state prisons shall be appointed by the governor, with the consent of the senate, and hold his office for five years, unless sooner removed; he shall give security in such amount, and with such sureties, as shall be required by law for the faithful discharge of his duties; he shall have the superintendence, management and control of the state prisons, subject to such laws as now exist or may hereafter be enacted; he shall appoint the agents, wardens, physicians and chaplains of the prisons. The agent and warden of each prison shall appoint all other officers of such prison, except the clerk, subject to the approval of the same by the superintendent. The comptroller shall appoint the clerks of the prisons. The superintendent shall have all the powers and perform all the duties not inconsistent herewith, which have heretofore been had and performed by the inspectors of state prisons; and from and after the time when such superintendent of state prisons shall have been appointed and qualified, the office of inspector of state prisons shall be and is hereby abolished. The governor may remove the superintendent for cause at any time, giving to him a copy of the charges against him, and an opportunity to be heard in his defense

§ 4. The treasurer shall be chosen by the senate and assembly in joint ballot, and hold his office for three years, and until his successor shall be chosen and qualified. He shall, before entering upon the duties of his office, give such security as may be required by law. He may be suspended from office by the governor during the recess of the legislature, and until thirty days after the commencement of the next session of the legislature, whenever it shall appear to him that such treasurer has, in any particular, violated his duty. The governor shall appoint a competent person to discharge the duties of the office during such suspension of the treasurer.

§ 5. The lieutenant governor, comptroller, secretary of state, attorney-general, treasurer and state engineer and surveyor shall be the commissioners of the land office. The office of the commissioner of the canal fund is abolished, and all the powers and duties heretofore had and performed by the commissioners of the canal fund shall hereafter be had or performed by the comptroller. The canal board shall consist of the lieutenant governor, secretary of state, treasurer, attorney-general, state engineer and surveyor, and superintendent of public works.

§ 6. A superintendent of public works shall be appointed by the governor, with the consent of the senate, and to hold his office until the end of the term of the governor by whom he was nominated and until his successor is appointed. He shall receive for his services a compensation to be fixed by law. He shall be required by law to give security for the faithful execution of his office, before entering upon the duties thereof. He shall be charged with the execution of all laws relating to the repair and navigation of the canals; and also of those relating to the construction and improvement of the canals, except so far as the execution of the laws relating to such construction or improvement shall be confided to the state engineer and surveyor. Subject to the control of the legislature, he shall make the rules and regulations for the navigation or use of the canals. He may be suspended or removed from office by the governor, whenever in his judgment the public interest shall so require; but in case of removal of such superintendent of public works from office, the governor shall file with the secretary of state a statement of the cause of such removal, and shall report such removal and the cause thereof, to the legislature at its next session.

§ 7. The superintendent of public works shall appoint not more than three assistant superintendents, whose duties shall be prescribed by him, subject to modification by the legislature, and who shall receive for their services a compensation to be fixed by law. They shall hold their office for three years, subject to suspension or removal by the superintendent of public works, whenever in his judgment the public interest shall so require. Any vacancy in the office of any such assistant superintendent shall be filled, for the remainder of the term for which he was appointed, by the superintendent of public works; but in case of the suspension or removal of any such assistant superintendent by him he shall at once report to the governor, in writing, the cause of such removal. All other persons employed in the care and management of the canals, except collectors of tolls, and those in the department of the state engineer and surveyor, shall be appointed by the superintendent of public works, and be subject to suspension or removal by him.

§ 8. The office of canal commissioner is abolished from and after the appointment and qualification of the superintendent of public works, until which time the canal commissioners shall continue to discharge their duties as now provided by law. The superintendent of public works shall perform all the duties of the canal commissioners, and board of canal commissioners, as now declared by law, until otherwise provided by the legislature.

§ 9. The governor, by and with the consent of the senate, shall have power to fill vacancies, in the offices in this article named except as herein otherwise provided; or, if the senate be not in session, he may grant commissions, which shall expire at the end of the next succeeding session of the senate.

§ 10. The attorney-general, state engineer and surveyor and treasurer, in office at the time this article shall take effect, shall hold their offices until their successors are appointed.

§ 11. The powers and duties of the respective boards, and of the several officers in this article named, shall, except as herein otherwise provided, be such as now are or hereafter may be prescribed by law.

§ 12. All offices for the weighing, gauging, measuring, culling or inspecting any merchandise, produce, manufacture or commodity whatever, are hereby abolished, and no such office shall hereafter be created by law; but nothing in this section contained shall abrogate any office created for the purpose of protecting the public health or the interest of the state in its property, revenue, tolls or purchases, or of supplying the people with correct standards of weights and measures, or shall prevent the creation of any office for such purposes hereafter.

Resolved, (if the assembly concur), That the foregoing amendment be referred to the legislature to be chosen at the next general election of senators, and that in conformity to section one of article thirteen of the constitution, it be published for three months previous to the time of such election.

CONCURRENT RESOLUTIONS proposing amendments to article four of the constitution.

Resolved, (if the assembly concur), That sections one, two, four, eight and nine of article four of the constitution be amended so as to read as follows:

SECTION 1. The executive power shall be vested in a governor who shall hold his office for three years; a lieutenant-governor shall be chosen at the same time, and for the same term. The governor and lieutenant-governor elected next preceding the time when this section shall take effect, shall hold office during the term for which they were elected.

§ 2. No person shall be eligible to the office of governor or lieutenant-governor, except a citizen of the United States, of the age not less than thirty years, and who shall have been five years, next preceding his election, a resident of this state.

§ 4. The governor shall be commander-in-chief of the military and naval forces of the state. He shall have power to convene the legislature (or the senate only) on extraordinary occasions. At extraordinary sessions no subject shall be acted upon, except such as the governor may recommend for consideration. He shall communicate by message to the legislature at every session the condition of the state, and recommend such matters to them as he shall judge expedient. He shall transact all necessary business with the officers of government, civil and military. He shall expedite all such measures as may be resolved upon by the legislature, and shall take care that the laws are faithfully executed. He shall receive for his services an annual salary of ten thousand dollars, and there shall be provided for his use a suitable and furnished executive residence.

§ 8. The lieutenant-governor shall receive for his services an annual salary of five thousand dollars, and shall not receive or be entitled to any other compensation, fee or perquisite, for any duty and service he may be required to perform by the constitution or by law.

§ 9. Every bill which shall have passed the senate and assembly, shall, before it becomes a law, be presented to the governor; if he approve, he shall sign it; but if not, he shall return it with his objections to the house in which it shall have originated, which shall enter the objections at large on the journal, and proceed to reconsider it. If, after such reconsideration, two-thirds of the members elected to that house shall agree to pass the bill, it shall be sent together with the objections to the other house, by which it shall likewise be reconsidered; and if approved by two-thirds of the members elected to that house, it shall become a law notwithstanding the objections of the governor. In all such cases, the votes in both houses shall be determined by yeas and nays, and the names of the members voting shall be entered on the journal of each house respectively. If any bill shall not be returned by the governor within ten days (Sundays excepted) after it shall have been presented to him, the same shall be a law in like manner as if he had signed it, unless the legislature shall, by their adjournment, prevent its return; in which case it shall not become a law without the approval of the governor. No bill shall become a law after the final adjournment of the legislature unless approved by the governor within thirty days after such adjournment. If any bill presented to the governor contain several items of appropriations of money, he may object to one or more of such items, while approving of the other portion of the bill. In such case, he shall append to the bill, at the time of signing it, a statement of the items to which he objects; and the appropriation so objected to shall not take effect. If the legislature be in session, he shall transmit to the house in which the bill originated a copy of such statement, and the items objected to shall be separately reconsidered. If, on reconsideration, one or more of such items be approved by two-thirds of the members elected to each house, the same shall be part of the law, notwithstanding the objections of the governor. All the provisions of this section, in relation to bills not approved by the governor, shall apply in cases in which he shall withhold his approval from any item or items contained in a bill appropriating money.

Resolved, (if the assembly concur). That the foregoing amendment be referred to the legislature to be chosen at the next general election of senators, and that, in conformity to section one of article thirteen of the constitution, it be published for three months previous to the time of such election.

AYER'S HAIR VIGOR,

FOR RESTORING GRAY HAIR

To its Natural Vitality and Color.

Advancing years, sickness, care, disappointment, and hereditary predisposition, all turn the hair gray, and either of them incline it to shed prematurely.

AYER'S HAIR VIGOR by long and extensive use, has proven that it stops the falling of the hair immediately often renews the growth, and always surely restores its color, when faded or gray It stimulates the nutritive organs to healthy activity, and preserves both the hair and its beauty.—Thus brashy weak or sickly hair becomes glossy, pliable and strengthened; lost hair regrows with lively expression; falling hair is checked and stablished; thin hair thickens; and faded or gray hair resume their original color. Its operation is sure and harmless. It cures dandruff, heals all humors, and keeps the scalp cool, clean and soft—under which conditions, diseases of the scalp are impossible.

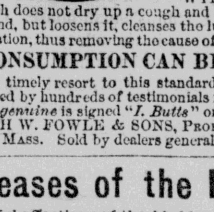

As a dressing for ladies' hair, the VIGOR is praised for its grateful and agreeable perfume, and valued for the soft lustre and richness of tone it imparts.
